War Averted As Lithuania Bows to Poles

Gives Unconditional Acceptance to All Demands

TENSION IS EASED

Warsaw Rejoices Over Apparent End Of Crisis

Kaunas—Lithuania bows to Polish ultimatum demanding commercial and diplomatic relations; averts invasion and potential new world war.

Warsaw— Poland hails bloodless victory gained by show of arms on Lithuanian frontier; determines nothing further to be done to humiliate Lithuanians.

Praha—Czechoslovakia gives her Germans greater voice in government; diplomatic sources report Hitler demanded renunciation of Czech military alliance with Russia.

London — France renews appeal for British aid to halt insurgent bombing of Barcelona; Britain welcomes United States envoy's declaration Washington is willing to join new peace program.

Berlin—Hitler's next moves are his secret after yesterday's reichstag speech asking four more years of power "to complete the tasks ahead in the greater reich."

Warsaw — (AP) — War apparently was averted between Poland and Lithuania today through the unconditional acceptance by Lithuania of all Polish demands.

The Lithuanian minister at Tallinn, Estonia, handed his government's reply to the Polish minsiter at noon.

News that there would be no war between the two Baltic neighbors caused great satisfaction in Warsaw.

The Polish government determined to do nothing that would humiliate Lithuania.

It was said in official quarters that Lithuania's acceptance of Polish terms was regarded not as submission to an ultimatum but as a gesture of moderation and good will.

Establish Legation

It was understood the Lithuanian note read as follows:

"On order of my government I have the honor to state the Lithuanian government decided today to establish normal diplomatic relations between Lithuania and Poland and for that purpose establishes a Lithuanian legation in Warsaw.

"The Lithuanian minister duly credited in Warsaw will present his credentials before March 31.

"The Lithuanian government guarantees on its part to the Polish minister in Kovno (Kaunas) conditions which would permit of normal exercise of his functions and in connection with these guarantees establishment after March 31 of direct means of communication—by land, water and air by postal, telegraphic and telephonic means between that legation and the Polish government."

Poland will make every effort to have negotiations run smoothly, it was said.

Troops Concentrated

Announcement of the successful conclusion of Poland's utimatum-backed drive for friendly relations with her little northern neighbor found Polish infantry, artillery, cavalry, tanks and planes concentrating on the border facing Kaunas, Lithuanian capital.

There were even newspaper reports that units of the Polish navy had left Gdynia, Poland's Baltic port, and steamed northward, presumably toward Lithuania.

A majority of Polish newspapers appeared this morning with streaming headlines which declared:

"The day will decide whether we have peace or war."

The issue depended upon action of the Lithuanian diet on a Polish ultimatum which demanded ap-

Marshal Edward Rydz-Smigly (above), virtual dictator and army chief of Poland, and the key man in negotiations to reach a settlement of differences between his country and Lithuania. The latter nation accepted all Polish demands today, apparently averting war.

End Alliance With Russia, Czechs Told

Hitler Makes Demand as Price of Peace With Germany

OTHER TERMS MET

Germans in Czechoslovakia Get Greater Voice in Government

Praha, Czechoslovakia — (AP) — Diplomatic sources today asserted Adolph Hitler had demanded that Czechoslovakia renounce her military alliance with soviet Russia as the price of peace with Germany.

The demand, said to have been conveyed to President Eduard Benes through diplomatic channels, was reported as the Czech government conformed with other German demands and gave the 3,500,000 Germans within her borders greater voice in their government.

End of the Russian alliance was said to be Hitler's basic condition for any talks to lessen Czech-German friction.

Informed persons said it was being made increasingly clear to Benes and Premier Milan Hodza that land-locked Czechoslovakia, two-thirds surrounded by an expanding Germany, must become a satellite of nazi Germany to avoid war.

Must Sever Alliances

To do this she must sever her military alliances and fit herself into Germanys economic order.

Czech government leaders considered that only thus could the Czechs and Slovaks retain their

Groups From Six Counties Outline Plan for Highway Safety and War on Crime

Weyauwega—Definite trends towards more cooperation between counties in regard to prevention of highway accidents, capture of criminals, more uniform regulation of traffic control, and the use of the police radio by sheriffs and highway officials, were indicated Friday at a meeting in Weyauwega, attended by delegates from six central Wisconsin counties. Representatives from Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Outagamie, Marathon, Calumet, and Waupaca counties aided in effecting a temporary organization of the Central Wisconsin Radio and Traffic association, completion of which will be made at a meeting to be held at Wausau in April.

George H. Dobbins, Weyauwega, was elected temporary chairman of the group, with A. J. Kordner of Oshkosh as secretary. Members of a committee appointed to formulate rules and regulations governing the organization, the first of its kind in Wisconsin, include L. E. McEnroe, Eden, representing Fond du Lac county; E. D. Wedmer, Wausau, Marathon county; J. P. Prebensen, Neenah, Winnebago county; Miles P. Dempsey, Bear Creek, Outagamie county; Earl Schwabe, Chilton, Calumet county; Arthur Steenbock; Clintonville, Waupaca county.

End Futile Hunt For Russ Fliers

Seven-Month Search From Alaska for Six Men Brought to Close

Fairbanks, Alaska—(AP)— A fruitless seven-month hunt from Alaska for the six missing Russian transpolar fliers ended today. The soviet government indicated any further search would be carried on from the Russian side of the Arctic.

Wireless and weather reporting systems were being dismantled, and Sir George Hubert Wilkins' Aklavik, N. W. T., base was abandoned. Wilkins and his party flew yesterday from Edmonton, Alta., enroute to New York. Wilkins was employed by the soviet government for the search.

Michael B. Beliakov, soviet representative here, said he was returning to Washington, D. C.

Wilkins expressed the opinion:

"The drift in the Arctic ice would have carried the missing men over to the Russian side of the Arctic ocean by now if they landed on the ice."

The transpolar plane, piloted by Sigismund Levaneffsky, was last heard from early on Aug. 13—28 hours after leaving Moscow for Fairbanks, 4,100 miles away.

Involuntary Bankruptcy Plea Facing Opposition

Madison—(AP)—Counsel for officials of the B. E. Buckman company discussed plans today for contesting an involuntary bankruptcy action brought in federal court last week against Wells-Kendall company, an affiliate of the Buckman concern. They denied the company is insolvent.

Find Body of Missing Man in Green Bay Marsh

Green Bay —(AP)— The body of Warren Wright, 24, town of Howard, was found today on a knoll in the flooded marsh north of the North Western road's shops by Lester and Marvin Williquette, Duck Creek, who had to wade through water up to their armpits to reach the body.

Authorities said death was due to a heart attack. Sheriff's officers and fishermen searched for him after his grandmother, Mrs. Rose Walker, became alarmed at his absence, especially after his dog returned yesterday afternoon without him.

Favor Exemption Of 16 Agencies

Reorganization Bill Foes Want Group to Remain Unchanged

Washington —(AP)— Opponents of the government reorganization bill, defeated in their effort to eliminate sweeping authority for the president to shift bureaus around, proposed today the exemption of 16 agencies from any change.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) offered 16 separate amendments, on the theory that each agency he listed had enough senatorial friends to assure its retention in present form.

Clark was with the minority yesterday when the senate rejected, 43 to 39, a proposal of Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) to curb presidential reorganization powers authorized in the bill.

Among the agencies Clark listed for proposed exemption were the forest service, the Tennessee Valley authority, biological survey and the social conservation service.

Happy at having obtained an agreement to limit debate, Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky predicted passage of the bill by Tuesday. He said the senate then would take up appropriations measures until the new tax bill is ready for consideration.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), leader of the reorganization bill opponents, declared he was "not downhearted" at the defeat of the Wheeler amendment, which would have given congress the final decision on any reorganization orders.

Omro Attorney Gives Data on Oatman Case

Oshkosh —(AP)— District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusen announced today Rodney Alder, Omro attorney, appeared at his request this morning and gave a detailed statement covering his connectoin with the Edward F. Oatman case.

Investigation was ordered by Circuit Judge C. F. Van Pelt recently after Oatman committed suicide while at liberty under bond awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of procuring a caretaker to commit arson at Oatman's Omro property.

All phases of the investigation are expected to be completed by the middle of next week when the findings will be mailed along with Alder's statement to Judge Van Pelt, the district attorney announced.

Hatten Estate Is Valued at Total Of $2,872,132.45

New London—(AP)— An inventory on file today played at $2,872,132.45 the total value of the estate of William H. Hatten, Wisconsin bachelor lumberman who died intestate March 30, 1937.

Twenty-two heirs will share the estate under terms of a compromise settlement reached last June, two of the original 24 affected in the settlement having since died.

One of the deceased heirs, Mrs. Ellen Hatten Hunter, 86, a sister of the lumberman, died in Chicago last August. The other, James F. Hatten, died last July at Joliet, Mont., where he operated a filling station.

Agreement Checks Strike Threat at New London Plant

Hatten Firm Agrees to Negotiate When Union Majority Is Certified

New London — A temporary agreement between officials of the Hatten Lumber company and the Lumber and Sawmill Workers, Local 2876, yesterday afternoon removed a threat of the union workers to strike today for an increase in wages, a closed shop and better working conditions.

The organized sawmill workers withdrew a proposed agreement of 6-weeks' standing when officials of the lumber company signed an agreement to negotiate with the union as soon as the state labor relations board certifies that the American Federation of Labor affiliate represents the majority of employes at the mill and designates the local as the sole bargaining agency for the workers.

All parties received notice yesterday that the labor relations board has denied a listing to the Hatten Employes association, an independent union, as a bonafide labor organization and therefore unqualified to represent the workers.

A hearing on the application of the independent group was held here Feb. 15.

The temporary arrangement provides that any future contract

Seadlund Doomed To Die April 19

Federal Judge Denies Arrest of Judgment and New Trial

Chicago —(AP)— John Henry Seadlund, 27-year-old Minnesota mechanic, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair April 19 for the kidnaping of Charles S. Ross, 72-year-old retired greeting card manufacturer.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes passed sentence after denying motions of Defense Attorneys Frederic Burnham and Floyd Thompson for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

Seadlund, manacled to two deputy marshals, was then led before the bench at the direction of the court.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced?" Judge Barnes asked the defendant.

"No," Seadlund answered in a weak voice, shaking his head.

Judge Barnes then read the formal sentence directing that Seadlund be held in the custody of the United States marshal and that 'on the 19th day of April the defendant shall be put to death by electrocution"

Heavy Rain Endangers Oconto County Bridges

Oconto —(AP)— Heavy rainfall last night, following a week of steady thaw, imperiled several bridges in Oconto county as the Oconto river and tributaries raised their levels. Travel was difficult on some side roads.

Several county trunks were blocked at the Little Suamico river, and north of Gillett. High water in the Oconto, and ice jams were threatening a bridge at Couillardville, as was the case north of Lena on Highway 141 and at Pensaukee on Highway 41.

TVA Chairman May be Asked To Quit Post

Roosevelt Expected to Act If Morgan Refuses To Give Data

PRESIDENT ANGRY

Gives Chairman 72 Hours To Make Up Mind on Answering Questions

Washington—(AP)—Informed persons expressed the opinion today that President Roosevelt would ask TVA Chairman A. E. Morgan to resign if he refuses to cooperate in a presidential inquiry into his quarrel with his fellow directors.

Plainly exasperated after a second, futile session yesterday with the three directors, Mr. Roosevelt gave Morgan 72 hours—until 1:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) Monday—to make up his mind whether he would answer questions at a broadened presidential investigation at which he would have opportunity to call witnesses.

The president indicated he thought the situation demanded some decisive action.

"On the evidence which has been presented and on the refusal to submit evidence on the part of Chairman Morgan, some action must be taken in the public interest," he said.

Refuses Facts

Morgan had refused, as he had a week earlier, to give Mr. Roosevelt any facts to support his charges against the other TVA directors, David Lilienthal and H. A. Morgan.

These charges include accusations of "bad faith" and "official misconduct."

In refusing to give factual evidence, Chairman Morgan told the president:

"It is not possible in sessions of this sort to go deeply and thoroughly enough into the facts pertinent to the issues to get the truth with respect to these maters."

His stand resulted in the president charging him with "contumacy"—disregard of authority. Mr. Roosevelt also declared that "on the face of the record as it stands today the charges of the other directors that Chariman Morgan has obstructed and sabotaged the work of the Tennessee Valley authority must be accepted as true."

While the president could request the chairman's resignation there was doubt that he could force it. The TVA act vests in congress the power to remove directors.

Morgan declined to disclose what course he would pursue. Although Mr. Roosevelt said he had authority to make a broad inquiry under section 17 of the TVA act, Morgan told reporters that section authorized only investigation of possible improper uses of federal property.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) said that "in my judgment congress is going to investigate TVA," and Senator Bridges (R-N. H.) declared no inquiry by the chief executive would cover all the charges which have been made against the agency.

State Asks Dismissal of Barber Code Challenge

Madison—(AP)—Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann had under advisement today a motion by the state to dismiss a suit by two Madison men challenging the constitutionality of the state barber code.

The barbers, John Clark Mann and Bennett Baaken, had asked the court to restrain Governor LaFollette and the trade practice department from enforcing the code, which contains minimum wage, hour and price provisions.

Judge Hoppmann heard arguments yesterday on a demurrer filed by the attorney general's office and is expected to hand down his decision in about 10 days. If the demurrer is sustained the plaintiffs may appeal to the supreme court.

Stevens Point Labor Controversy Is Ended

Stevens Point—(AP)—Settlement of a labor controversy at the Bake Rite wholesale bakery here was reached early this morning, under the terms of which the members of an independent union of salesmen, who are drivers, will join General Drivers' union of the American Federation of Labor. Picketing stopped and work will be resumed tonight.

Barcelona Apparently Ready to Fight On Despite Insurgent Aerial Attacks

Barcelona—(AP)—This capital of government Spain today gave evidence that its determination to fight on has survived two days of the most terrible air raids of the civil war.

United Socialist youth organizations called for two divisions of youths totaling 22,000 volunteers to be formed within ten days.

The communist newspaper organ appealed to youths "who do not want to be enslaved" and who "are willing to do heroic deeds" to join the ranks.

Two great labor syndicates in their first really united action urged workers to stay at their jobs in factories.

Rescue workers continued to dig for victims in debris of buildings shattered by insurgent raids which continued from late Wednesday until last night.

The highest estimates of dead in this series of attacks were about 1,300, but authorities said only half that number of bodies had been taken from the ruins. They said they were unable to estimate how many still were buried. More than 2,000 wounded were counted.

For the first time in the 20 months of war Barcelona's traditional gayety and accustomed amusements gave way to a grim route of war.

Thousands refused to leave the shelter of the subways, where they camped. Thousands more stayed in the suburbs, to which they had fled.

(Insurgent authorities announced that the terrible bombings of Barcelona were justified by the discovery of military objectives in the heart of the city.

Several important buildings were listed as storage places for war materials.

Mexican President Takes Over Control Of U. S. Oil Firms

WILL FILE BRIEFS

Action Not Expected to Forestall Formal Order

New York—(AP)—The United States oil companies affected by the Mexican threat of expropriation today said through a spokesman they would use "every legal means" to resist the action of the Mexican government.

This explanation was given in connection with a statement from W. S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, in which he said, "we are not disposed to stand idly by and see that capital confiscated."

The sum is the foreign investment in the Mexican oil industry.

The United States oil companies affected will submit briefs to Secretary of State Cordell Hull early next week, it was said, but this action is not expected to be speedy enough to forestall the formal expropriation order scheduled for Monday.

Employed 18,000

The 14 American-owned companies and 3 British, with Mexican properties valued at $400,000,000, accounted for three-fourths of the country's petroleum production. They employed about 18,000 workers and paid wages they claimed were the highest in Mexican industry.

It was said in the oil industry that expropriation might mean bankruptcy for foreign oil interests or might result in outright confiscation, which would compel the companies to sell out to the Mexican government for a fraction of the value of their holdings.

The foreign oil interests have been preparing for drastic action by the government since the supreme court upheld the labor board's order for wage increases and other compensation amounting to $12,000,000 annually, which the companies maintained they could not pay.

They have been moving employes and assets out of Mexico and transferring bank accounts to avoid seizure by the Mexican government.

Youth Is Arrested In Extortion Plot

Accused of Demanding $30,000 Ransom for Return of Levine Boy

Newark, N. J.—(AP)—A youth described as Stanley Thomas Jasosky, 19, of Newark, was held in $25,000 bail today by United States Commissioner Holland on a charge of attempted extortion in connection with the kidnaping of 12-year-old Peter Levine of New Rochelle, N. Y.

After the arraignment, Jasosky, who was arrested by Newark detectives and agents of the federal bureau of investigation, was removed to the Hudson county jail in Jersey City.

The complaint charges Jasosky with demanding $30,000 from Peter Levine's father, Murray Levine, for the return of his son. Young Levine vanished from New Rochelle on Feb. 21.

Newark Detective Peter La Bagliva said Jasosky "confessed writing the six letters." The detective said Jasosky denied participating in the kidnaping but declared "he knew who did it."

All but one of the letters specified the "ransom" was to be paid in Newark. The "pay off" spot named in the first letter was said to be at W. Market and High streets.

Brewers Fight Tariff Cut on Malt Beverages

Washington — (AP) — America's billion dollar brewing industry vigorously protested yesterday against proposals to grant concessions on malt beverages in a pending reciprocal trade agreement with the United Kingdom.

George P. McCabe, counsel for the American Brewers association, declared any lowering of tariffs on beer, stout or ale "would be a calamity to domestic brewers."

American brewers, he told the committee for reciprocity information, produced malt beverages equal in quality to foreign products, but required tariff protection because of higher wage and production costs.

Week's Weather

SEIZES PROPERTY

President Lazaro Cardenas today took over American and British oil properties in Mexico. His action was designed to end a two-year conflict between labor and foreign capital. The properties are valued at more than $400,000,000.

Youth Seriously Hurt in Bicycle, Automobile Crash

Ralph Hauert, 12, in St. Elizabeth Hospital With Brain Concussion

Ralph Hauert, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hauert, 721 N. Rankin street, is in a serious condition at St. Elizabeth hospital today with concussion of the brain and other body bruises suffered in a traffic accident while he was riding his bicycle about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

His bicycle and a car driven by Elief Ellefson, 56, 933 E. North street, collided at N. Rankin and E. Washington streets. The youth was going east on Washington street and Ellefson north on Rankin when the collision occurred. The boy was still in a state of coma at noon today.

John Zimmerman, Richmond street, is confined to St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay with a brain concussion and multiple lacerations of the face and head as a result of an accident on Highway 41, about two miles north of the Outagamie county line, last night. Claude Ulrik, Appleton, driver of the car, escaped with cuts and bruises about the face and body.

Dozed at Wheel

The men were returning to Appleton when Ulrik dozed at the wheel, he told Brown county authorities. The car cut down 150 feet of fence, broke off a 16-inch pole and came to rest in a field. The men were without aid for two hours, Ulrik said. Passing cars would not stop and an appeal for help at a nearby farm home was useless when the farmer wouldn't come to the door, he reported.

Finally an Illinois motorist, whose name was not learned, stopped and took the injured men to Green Bay. Ulrik was released from the hospital after treatment.

Harry Welhouse, Little Chute, and Peter Gerritts, Little Chute, who were injured when their car went off old Highway 41 just south of the Kaukauna city limits early yesterday morning, were reported in an improved condition today. X-rays showed that Gerritts suffered fractures of one collar bone and some ribs. Welhouse was lacerated about the scalp, face and legs. Their car was demolished when it struck a telephone pole.

Britain Welcomes U. S. Stand on Peace Plan

London —(AP)— Great Britain today welcomed Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's declaration that the United States is willing to join in a new peace program.

"My country would be glad to join and encourage any nation or group of nations in a peace program based on economic recovery, limitation of armaments and a revival of the sanctity of international commitments" the new ambassador said yesterday in his first speech on British soil.

Nevertheless, he warned the British not to presume too much on American participation in foreign affairs.

Speaking at the Pilgrim's club, Kennedy said two mistaken conceptions of America frequently were held abroad:

1. "Our country would not fight under any circumstances short of actual invasion.

2. "The United States could never remain neutral in the event a general war should unhappily break out."

Although Europe hums today with war talk, the ambassador said: "In our country, we refuse as yet to believe war is inevitable. We prefer to believe that the common sense of the peoples of the world will prevent it."

Also Expropriates British-Owned Oil Properties

EXPLAINS ACTION

Dealings in Foreign Currency Ordered Suspended

Mexico City—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas expropriated American and British Oil properties valued at more than $400,000,000 today in a bold stroke designed to end a two-year conflict between labor and foreign capital.

Simultaneously, the Central Bank of Mexico suspended dealings in foreign currency and the president indicated devaluation of the peso was under official consideration.

An extraordinary session of the chamber of deputies was called for 11 a. m. (noon E. S. T.) today to vote additional budget appropriations to tide the government over the crisis.

Operations were suspended in the oil industry at one minute after midnight last night as union oil workers, going ahead with a threatened "folded-arms strike," forced a shutdown.

It was believed, however, that union headquarters would order the syndicate's 18,000 members back to work promptly in an effort to help Cardenas while he tussles with the admittedly difficult situation.

"Sordid Campaign"

A bulletin from the press bureau early today said the Mexican cabinet had decided upon "means to prevent damage to the financial activities of the country."

These included provisional operation of the petroleum industry by the department of national economy and the general petroleum administration.

Another step was representations by the government to all labor unions urging them to refrain from strikes and public manifestations.

Cardenas, broadcasting an explanation of his act, said the foreign oil companies had carried on a "sordid and skillful campaign" against the government, which "has had the result that these same companies sought—to injure seriously the economic interests of the nation, attempting by this means to nullify the legal dispositions dictated by the Mexican authorities."

"Ought to be Settled"

The fact that the industry has sent out of the country all its cash vitiated ordinary procedure in the case, the president said, while ordinary procedure in any case would mean 'continuance of a situation that for the sake of decorum ought to be settled forthwith."

He added:

"They have had money for rebellion—money for the anti-patriotic press that defends them—money to enrich their unconstitutional defenders, but for the progress of the country, to seek equilibrium through just compensation of labor, for the encouragement of hygiene in the regions where they operate, or to save from destruction the abundant riches which the natural gases united with petroleum in nature signify, there is no money, nor economic possibility. . . ."

Mexican and foreign business men this morning found virtual paralysis threatening commercial operations in the wake of the fast-moving events.

President Cardenas, long noted for advanced social and labor tendencies, invoked the radical expropriation law of November, 1936, to declare the holdings of 17 British and American petroleum companies properties of the government.

"Economic Liberation"

This drastic move was described by the president as essential for the "economic liberation" of Mexico.

The companies, he charged had defied the courts of the land in refusing to accept an arbitral verdict of the federal labor board handed

Farmer Files Claim For Little Pig That Didn't Go to Market

Manitowoc —(AP)— The tale of a little pig that never got to market all because of one of Manitowoc county's rotary snowplows was on file with the highway department today.

The little pig was minding his own business, warm and comfy in his sty, when the rotary heaved snow up against the barn, smashed the window, and filled up the sty.

So the little pig had to be put in with his big brothers in another sty. It was crowded in there because his brothers were so large and numerous. In the morning when Mr. Farmer looked in on the brother grunt, there was one less of them, because the little pig had been smothered to death.

Hence the claim for one pig and one window, filed against the county highway department.

P. S. The reason the farmer didn't have time to fix the pane of glass in the first place, was that he had to go to Kiel for a load of hay.

Hitler Seeking Four More Years To Finish Tasks

Old Reichstag Dissolved And New Elections Ordered

Berlin—(AP)— Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler wants four more years of power "to complete the tasks ahead in the greater reich."

Another step toward consolidation of Austria into the nazi domain was taken yesterday when the old reichstag was dissolved and new legislative elections were called for April 10. The new reichstag will be the first to represent the greater Germany.

Hitler announced that all of Germany including Austria, would vote at the same time on union of Austria with Germany. A plebiscite already had been called in Austria for April 10.

The reichstag heard Hitler, in blunt terms, reiterate his warning against infringement on the rights of German minorities in other countries.

Veiled Thrust

His threat to use force, as he did in Austria, was taken as a veiled thrust at Czechoslovakia, with 3,500,000 restless Germans inside its borders and half surrounded by nazi territory.

Hitler took occasion to thank Premier Benito Mussolini for approving the Austrian annexation.

The "word of the German nation" was pledged as security that Italy's frontiers would remain inviolate.

In justification of his armed absorption of Austria, der fuehrer said his decision to march into the land of his birth was dictated by realization that, otherwise, bloody civil war would break out.

"I was determined to spare Austria the fate of Spain," he said. "Schuschnigg (the ousted Austrian premier) can thank God I acted—my decision saved him and 10,000 others their lives."

Pities Democracies

Saying he "pitied the democracies" because they did not understand his move into Austria, Hitler said his act was the result of "a stark violation of the right of self-determination of the 6,500,000 people of German nationality."

The German leader, speaking clearly and forcefully, stood before a cheering Reichstag which included for the first time on its government bench the new governor of Austria, Arthur Seysz-Inquart, and other representatives of the new German province.

He referred to his talk Feb. 12 at Berchtesgaden with Schuschnigg saying he had told the Austrian chancellor that continued suppression of nazi patriots would inevitably result in revolutionary uprisings which would compel Germany to intervene.

He said he had proposed a way out which would lead to gradual internal pacification and thus to reconciliation not only between Austrians themselves but between the two German states.

"However, I warned him it would be my last attempt," Hitler said. "If the Berchtesgaden agreement failed, I was determined to safeguard the rights of the German people in my homeland with those means which since time immemorial remains the means of last resort."

PARKER AND BRIDE WHEN SHE WAS "MAMMA"

Frankie Parker, 22-year-old tennis star, is shown with Mr. and Mrs. Mercer Beasley in 1934 when Beasley with his tennis coach and wanted to be designated the lad's legal adviser "because he is living with us and is treated as our son." This week a divorce parted the Beasleys and Mrs. Beasley, mother of a 21-year-old daughter, married Parker.

Groups From Six Counties Outline Plan for Highway Safety and War on Crime

County Police Radio System, comprised of Winnebago, Outagamie, Waupaca, and Fond du Lac counties, which pioneered a cooperative radio patrol in January, 1937, with Station WAKE, Oshkosh, as the central point. So satisfactory were the results with this experiment, particularly in regard to the recovery of stolen automobiles and in the apprehension of criminals using the highways for quick getaways, that it has attracted statewide and nationwide attention. Calumet and Waushara counties are already considering joining the original four, and Marathon county is seeking to benefit by a radio police hookup.

More than fifty representatives of sheriff's offices, traffic and highway committees of the six counties who had delegates at the meeting, heard talks on safety by Walter A. Olen, Clintonville, president of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company; E. J. O'Meara, Madison, traffic engineer of the state highway department; Marshall Searle, Oshkosh, chief engineer of radio station WAKE; and Paul E. Roman, Manawa, district attorney of Waupaca county.

Safety Great Problem

"I am deeply impressed with the keenness, the earnestness, and the sincerity of this gathering, because safety on highways is a greater problem as regards human lives and welfare than all our wars," Mr. Olen told the assemblage. "Even the great loss of life by contagious diseases year after year cannot measure up to the death toll of automobile accidents."

Mr. Olen stated that three agencies, the car, the road, and the driver, must divide the responsibility of all motor travel. He presented a technical treatise on the dangers and increasing prevalence of monoxide poisonings, a phase of motoring safety about which he has made exhaustive study and investigations.

He expressed hope that in his own plant he might help to design and develop by research and experiments a better and a safer vehicle that would mean more security and fewer casualties in the future for all motor car travelers.

Mr. O'Meara called attention to the fact that the automobile problem had been dumped in our laps so suddenly and had assumed such gigantic proportions in so comparatively short a period that it was a physical and financial impossibility to provide highways to measure up to the standards demanded by the modern cars.

Tremendous Increase

"Think of it!" he exclaimed. "Only a quarter of a century ago when we made our first registration of cars in Wisconsin, there were just 12,000 automobiles in this state. Today there are more than 800,000 motor-propelled vehicles on our highways."

Strict regulation and supervision of traffic by patrolmen and other officers, a complete analysis of every traffic accident, concentration of traffic patrols during hours when most accidents occur (usually between 4 o'clock p. m. and 2 o'clock a. m.), somewhat more stringent drivers' license laws, and a maximum daylight speed limit of 60 miles an hour were some of the recommendations made by Mr. O'Meara that he believed would tend towards more safety on the highways.

District Attorney Roman of Waupaca county decried the apparent public apathy towards traffic deaths and accidents which, he said, was hard to understand.

Lauds Insurance Plan

He was glad to note, he commented, that automobile insurance companies were trying to stress safety on highways with a publicity program announcing that 15 per cent of the cost of insurance would be deducted from the premium paid by those drivers who reported no accidents over a period of one year.

"This is one way by which reckless drivers can be segregated in some measure from the careful drivers," Mr. Roman declared. "However, the prime assets of any good automobile pilot are carefulness, courtesy, and consideration."

Mr. Searle explained briefly the station routine and how its full crew of licensed operators worked hand in hand with the motor patrols of four counties 24 hours of every day. The cost of this service to the four counties in 1937 was about $6,700, divided four ways and split up according to the assessed valuation of the counties.

Lappen Praises Radio

Sheriff John F. Lappen of Outagamie county gave instances as to the efficient operation and use of the radio in apprehending criminals and recovering stolen property, while Irving Stilp, Oshkosh, captain of the Winnebago county highway police, stated simply, "We'd be lost without the radio patrol system."

Outagamie county representatives at the meeting were John F. Lappen, Appleton, sheriff; Miles P. Dempsey, Bear Creek, chairman of the radio and police committee; Henry Kruetzverg, Hortonville, and John Dietrich, Kaukauna, two other members of the committee; Jack Frenzl, Appleton, highway official; and D. W. Jansen, Appleton.

Representatives from Winnebago county were J. B. Prebensen, Neenah, A. J. Kordner, Oshkosh, George H. Macke, Oshkosh, E. F. Dornbrook, Menasha, and O. H. Pope, Neenah, all members of the sheriff's and coroner's committee; C. O. Allen, chairman of the town of Oshkosh; Officer Irving Stilp, and M. O. Searle, Oshkosh.

Dobbins, Weyauwega, James Van-Epps, Waupaca, members of the sheriff and traffic regulations committee; Paul E. Roman, district attorney; Leland J. Steiger, county clerk; and Byron Whitney, bookkeeper at the highway office, Waupaca.

E. J. O'Meara, Madison, state traffic engineer; L. Gould of Green Bay and L. A. Phillip of West Allis, state traffic inspectors, also were present.

Supreme Tribunal Hears Argument On Labor Dispute

CIO Challenges Madison Court Ruling in Jurisdictional Case

Madison—(AP)—Arguments in the jurisdictional dispute between AFL and CIO unions at the Freeman Shoe company of Beloit were presented before the supreme court yesterday by Attorneys Max Geline, CIO counsel, and Joseph A. Padway, representing the AFL.

The hearing was continued today.

The CIO union is seeking relief from findings of the state labor board and Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis who upheld the board's finding that an employer is free to choose any listed labor organization to deal with for collective bargaining purposes.

Signed Contract

The Freeman company signed an AFL contract June 4, 1937, Judge Reis said the Wisconsin law does not require a majority in the union in order to validate a closed shop contract.

Geline claimed that although the AFL organization in the plant had a majority of employes in the plant at the time the firm signed its contract, it acquired its majority because of encouragement on the part of company foreman, which he held could be interpreted as nothing else than discouragement for the CIO group, and illegal practice by the employer.

Geline contended Judge Reis' ruling that an employer can make his own choice of union groups does not consider the whole labor act as an entity and ignores the dominant purpose and meaning of the legislation which he said means that employes must be free to choose their union affiliation without interference from the employer.

Took No Measures

He claimed the board's findings "places the employer in the seat where he can choose whichever organization he desires," adding that the board decided that the company engaged in unfair practices, but took no measures after the company signed its contract with the AFL.

Padway, who will continue his arguments today, contended that the encouragement of one union did not necessarily mean the discouragement of the other, and that the employer did not exceed his constitutional rights of free speech in expressing his like for the AFL. He claimed also that the employer is privileged from majority rule in an all-union or closed shop contract under Wisconsin law.

Says Group Helped Get Support for Committee

Washington—(AP)—Chairman La-Follette (P-Wis.) of the senate civil liberties committee asserted today that the National Association of Manufacturers assisted in obtaining financial support for the Johnstown citizens committee.

Walter B. Weisenburger, executive vice president of the association, conceded that a letter written by him to about 30 large members of the association had "the effect" of promoting the citizens committee's campaign.

He said, however, that was not "the intent" of the letter or "our main motive."

The association, Weisenburger said, had not contributed "directly or indirectly" to any local or national citizens committee.

Jury Commissioners to Get Mileage, Dohr Told

Madison—(AP)—Jury commissioners are not county employes and should receive 10 cents for each mile actually traveled in attending meetings in the discharge of their legal duties, District Attorney Raymond P. Dohr of Outagamie county was advised today by Attorney General Orland S. Loomis.

However, when such meetings cover a period of several days they are not entitled to mileage remuneration for each day during the meeting, but only for the round trip, Loomis explained.

Hitler Demands End of Czechs' Pact With Soviet political and cultural independence won in the World war peace treaties.

Germany rates the Czech mutual assistance treaty with France as of secondary importance since Germany has fortified her western frontier so strongly she has little fear of France coming to Czechoslovakia's aid in time of war.

If the Czechs accede to Hitler's desire and give up their alliance with Russia, then Germany will be in a mood to offer Czechoslovakia attractive terms for economic anschluss — such as was talked of between Austria and Germany before Hitler absorbed his southern neighbor.

Would Consume Products

Germany will argue that the expanded reich is one of the greatest consumers of the world. Germany has plenty of use for Czech lumber, synthetic wool and cotton, and Czech grain for her breweries.

The free harbor of Hamburg, now at Czechoslovakia's disposal, — and an outlet vital to her commerce — is a powerful weapon in negotiations. Germany is confident she can choke Czechoslovakia economically if she does not swing into the German orbit.

Leading nazis even want Czechoslovakia to become a federal state of Germany with the Germans in Czechoslovakia becoming an important factor in the administration. Czechs and Slovaks, under their plan, would become subservient to Germany much as Albanians look up to Italy.

Though Hitler pledged his personal word to the Czech minister in Berlin that his nazi government did not intend to use force against Czechoslovakia he was said to expect the Czech government to meet Germany's proposals.

The cabinet council decided German districts would be administered by German nationals, shortly after Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, in a speech to the Reichstag, had warned again of his determination to protect Germans beyond his borders.

An earlier government order granted Germans 22 per cent of administrative posts.

War Is Averted When Lithuania Bows to Poland

peasement of a series of grievances dating back 18 years.

While the attitude of the Lithuanian government was reported to be conciliatory, public agitation whipped up Polish sentiment for a more far-reaching solution.

The national radicals circulated leaflets in the streets declaring, "Lithuania must disappear from the European map."

Runs on Polish banks and anti-Jewish street fights began as a development of the high anxiety over the possibility of war.

Long lines of worried depositors, mostly Jews, formed outside the banks, including the government postal savings cash bank. The people had been gathering since early morning hours. Banks remained open despite the fact it was St. Joseph's day, a national holiday because it was the name day of Poland's hero, the late Marshal Joseph Pilsudski.

The presence of so many Jews in the lines spurred boys from the radical national movement to anti-Jewish demonstrations.

Shouting and milling about the banks, they accused the Jews of causing inner unrest and panic.

The demonstrators rallied to strains of the national anthem and the revolutionary song of 1863. As the Jews filed in and out of banks the young men pummelled them.

The Warsaw press carried uniform reports that according to their information Russia showed no interest in the present Polish-Lithuanian conflict. Denials from Kaunas, Lithuanian capital, of this statement received no attention.

German Threat

A nazi spokesman in Berlin declared yesterday Germany would march into Memel, formerly a part of East Prussia but since the World war a part of Lithuania, the moment Poland's military machine crossed the Lithuanian border.

In other quarters in Berlin it was asserted Germany had withdrawn her objections to Polish action in Lithuania as a result of Polish acquiescence to a possible annexation by Germany of the free city of Danzig.

(Danzig, formerly a part of Germany, is nominally under protection of the League of Nations, but is now ruled by a Danzig nazi party, sympathetic to Adolf Hitler.)

Cause of Ultimatum

The current dispute was brought to a head by the killing of a Polish border guard March 11.

Poland delivered an ultimatum Thursday with a 48-hour time limit attached. Among demands were renunciation of Wilno, which Poland took in 1920, as the capital of Lithuania; exchange of diplomatic representatives; commercial and customs accords; an open border to permit rail, postal and telegraphic communications; an agreement respecting minorities in each other's territory, and redress for the frontier incident of March 11.

There has been no direct diplomatic relationship between the two countries since 1920.

The situation drew the attention of all Europe.

ACCEPTS DEMANDS

Kaunas, Lithuania—(AP)—The Lithuanian government and parliament today bowed grimly to an ultimatum backed by the might of Poland's army and navy and saved herself from invasion and Europe from another war.

The Lithuanian minister at Tallinn, Estonia, delivered to Poland's minister there a note fully accepting Poland's demand for reestablishment of diplomatic relations, broken since Poland seized the ancient Lithuanian capital, Wilno, Oct. 9, 1920.

The Polish minister in reply confirmed the resumption of such relations.

Lithuania's Seimas (parliament) accepted the government's decision to yield, it was announced, in the face of the threat of Polish invasion and the general international situation.

In silence the grave-faced members of parliament heard the government announce it was "forced" to extend an unwilling hand of diplomatic "friendship" to the country it had snubbed nearly 18 years.

"The preponderance of force is on the side of Poland," declared acting Premier Jokubas Stanisauckis, "but might is not right.

Thanks Envoys

Jokubas Stanisauckis, minister of communications, thanked envoys of the great powers for their help and advice during the crisis.

At the time Lithuania capitulated it was estimated 100,000 Polish troops were massed along her border—five times as many as the whole Lithuanian army.

Also there were reports that the Polish fleet had put out from Gdynia and was steaming toward Lithuania's coast.

There were predictions of changes in the Lithuanian cabinet as a result of this week's developments.

Poland's ultimatum, demanding re-establishment of diplomatic relations, resumption of railway and postal communications, negotiation of commercial and customs treaties, withdrawal of Lithuania's constitutional claims to Wilno, and other agreements, had a 48-hour time limit expiring at 3 p. m. (E. S. T.) today.

In accepting the Polish ultimatum Lithuania did not formally renounce her claims to Wilno. But her capitulation amounted to virtual admission that the city was Polish, because one of Poland's terms was that there must be "no discussion" of Wilno.

Sportsmen Ask Commission to Rescind Order Closing Part of Brule River

Superior —(AP)— A resolution demanding that the Wisconsin Conservation commission rescind its order to close part of the Brule river to all but fly fishermen was adopted by a large group of sportsmen at a second mass meeting held last night.

The sportsmen also adopted a resolution censuring the conservation department for issuing the order without holding a public hearing nor giving publicity to the order.

The meeting was scheduled by the Douglas County Fish and Game Protective league and was presided over by Clare Wildner, president.

The resolutions adopted were identical with those passed at a previous mass meeting. The first set of resolutions was presented at Madison by Mr. Wildner on behalf of the sportsmen, but the conservation commission took no action, contending it lacked a quorum. The commission at that time said the matter would be taken up at the April 13 meeting, and recommended that in the meantime Mr. Wildner return to Superior and urge sportsmen to reconsider their protests.

Invite Officials

Wildner publicized the wishes of the conservation commission, but found sportsmen unwilling to retract their protests. Instead, more petitions were circulated and sent to Governor LaFollette. Wildner then called a mass meeting for Friday night, inviting members of the conservation department, the conservation commission, Governor LaFollette, Haskell Noyes, former member of the conservation commission, and others to come to the meeting to present their views concerning the closing order.

None of the state officials appeared at the meeting.

Each had sent letters explaining previous committments prevented their attendance.

Claims were made by numerous sportsmen that the conservation department had acted "in a high handed fashion" by closing the Brule. It was contended that the only notice of the order was a legal advertisement in fine print published in the Superior Evening Telegram and the Sheboygan Press.

Copies of the resolutions will be sent to H. W. Mackenzie, director of the conservation department; R. B. Goodman, chairman of the conservation commission; and to Governor LaFollette.

Typical of protests voiced was that of Theodore Rask, Superior sportsmen, who began circulation of petitions several weeks ago. Rask said: "I have two statements to make, first it's class legislation, second, it smells."

Mr. Wildner pointed out that the Badger State Sportsmen's club of LaCrosse has endorsed the fight against the closing order, and that he is receiving letters from all parts of the state commending the action which has been taken.

The closing order was termed "river autocracy" by R. A. Clemens, Superior.

State Senator Phil Nelson charged that the conservation department has become drunk with the power delegated to it by the legislature, and said the time has come to devest it of "the autocratic power."

Cardenas Takes Over British and U. S. Oil Concerns

down Dec. 18, increasing their labor costs by approximately $7,200,000 yearly and giving the workers other benefits.

In flatly refusing to pay the increased rates, the companies contended the increases were "confiscatory" and so high as to force suspension of operations if imposed.

That refusal, the president declared, "imposes upon the executive power the duty of seeking in the resources of our legislation an efficacious remedy that will definitely prevent, now and in the future, that the verdict of the justice (judicial power) be nullified, or attempt at nullification be made, by reason of the will of the parties through a simple declaration of insolvency as is attempted in the present case..."

Plants Close Down

An eleventh hour offer by the companies to pay the sum stipulated in the award, if they could interpret as they chose the administrative clause of the new collective labor contract imposed upon them, was swept aside.

The Bank of Mexico's "suspension of operations in gold, dollars and foreign exchange," to be resumed "as soon as it (the bank) judges opportune," was interpreted by a bank official as presaging depreciation of the currency.

The American Smelting and Refining company announced suspension of operations in its big Monterey silver refinery, which employes 400 men, ostensibly because of labor difficulties.

Reliable sources also said the Ford Motor company's assembly company's assembly plant in Mexiplant in Mexico City, employing 300 men, would not open today.

President Cardenas announced his seizure of the oil properties came after a three-hour conference with the full cabinet; Juan Gray, secretary general of the oil workers' union, and Vicente Lombardo Toledano, politically-powerful secretary general of the Confederation of Workers of Mexico (C.T.M.), with which the petroleum syndicate is affiliated.

May Devalue Peso

The companies' refusal to accept the arbitral verdict, the president said, would destroy—if left unchallenged — "the social norms that regulate the equilibrium of all the inhabitants of Mexico."

The president's address gave clear indication that devaluation of the peso was under official consideration.

Asserting that the government had taken "all desirable steps in order that the constructive activities of the republic not be lessened," the chief executive said:

"Nevertheless, if it becomes necessary, we shall sacrifice all the constructive activities which this period of government has undertaken to meet the economic compromises that application of the expropriation law to interests so vast demand of us.

Readjustment Needed

"And although the subsoil of the country itself will give us abundant economic resources to settle the obligation of indemnification we have contracted, we must accept that our individual economy also suffer inevitable readjustments to the point, if the Bank of Mexico deems necessary, of modification of the present rate of exchange of our money, so that the entire country may count with the currency and (other) elements to consolidate this act of essential and profound economic liberation of Mexico."

Cardenas said if he had not intervened, the paralysis of the oil industry would have resulted, with its consequent effects on the national economy and "the placing in grave danger of the existence of the government itself."

Tracing the history of the long controversy, he said the presidency had tried unsuccessfully to bring labor and capital to an agreement. He accused the companies of "fattening on tolerance grown out of ignorance" and "undue intervention in national policies."

There was no announcement as to how much indemnity the companies would be paid for their expropriated property. Under Mexican law, such indemnification must be made within 10 years.

Companies affected by the expropriation decree were:

Compania Mexicana de Petroleo El Aguila (Royal Dutch Shell), Huasteca Petroleum company (Standard Oil of New Jersey), Pierce Oil company (Sinclair), California Standard Oil company of Mexico, Penn-Mex Fuel Oil company, Stanford Y Compania, Richmond Petroleum company of Mexico, Compania Explitadora de Petrola la Imperial, Compania de Gas Y Combustible Imperio, Compania de Petroleo Cacalilao, Mexican Gulf Oil company, Mexican Sinclair Petroleum corporation, Consolidated Oil company of Mexico, Compania Petrolera "Agwi," Sabalo Transportation Oil company, Compania Naviera San Cristobal, Compania Naviera San Antonio and Compania Naviera San Ricardo. The last three concerns are shipping companies.

Fears Proposed Levies May Delay Tax Bill Action

Harrison Anxious for Passage Because of Benefits to Business

Washington—(AP)— Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the senate finance committee expressed concern today that a proposal to add commodity processing levies to the administration's tax revision bill might delay enactment of the measure.

Harrison said he was anxious to expedite its passage "because of the benefits which will result to business." His committee is considering eliminating the undistributed profits tax and modifying the corporate gains tax, both sharply criticized by some business men.

"I had been hopeful," Harrison said, "that any move for processing taxes would start in the house and come to the senate as a separate proposition."

Proposes Amendment

Senator Pope (D-Idaho), an author of the new farm program, proposed yesterday an amendment levying "tariff equalization" taxes on the processing of wheat, corn, tobacco, rice, cotton and synthetic fibers.

He said the levies would add $212,000,000 to the $500,000,000 now provided for the payment of farm benefits.

Harrison said that if Pope demanded hearings on the processing levies, it would be necessary to hear the views of those opposing such taxes, entailing considerable time.

Pope told reporters that processing levies are "an essential supplement" to the new farm program, and that he would press for action in the finance committee.

Such levies, invalidated by a supreme court decision on the first agricultural adjustment act are assessed against "middlemen," such as mills which transform grain into flour.

Secretary Wallace and Secretary Hull joined yesterday in criticising the house-approved levy of six cents a pound on imported pork. Both said such a tax would be of no actual benefit and might jeopardize foreign markets for American products.

A Message to the Citizens of Appleton

IN making this formal announcement of my candidacy for reelection as your Mayor at the polls Tuesday, April 5, I want first to express my thanks to all of you for the backing and encouragement given me in carrying out policies justified by the times and conditions.

John Goodland, Jr.

I feel that my record of the last eight years as your Mayor speaks for itself. Everything within my power has been done to enforce economy and give the citizens the lowest possible tax rate, consistent with necessary municipal services and needed improvements. I know you will have confidence in me if I pledge a continuance of that policy under present conditions.

I shall further see to it that the taxpayers continue to obtain value received for city expenditures. This applies especially to the resurfacing of College Avenue. I was opposed to the type of paving selected, but will do my utmost to see that the present condition is properly remedied.

I shall pledge my efforts to provide a monthly installment plan of paying taxes because I realize the need of it. The plan has been used successfully in other Wisconsin cities, and I believe we can adopt it here without extra expense to the city.

I ask your vote on the basis of my record and shall appreciate your continued support.

John Goodland, Jr.

Kaukauna Boxers Lose to St. Mary's By 1-Bout Margin

Menasha Squad Wins 4 of 7 Decisions; Three Contests End in Draws

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna High school boxing team was nosed out here last night in the final match, Vernon Van Dyke of St. Mary's of Menasha outpointing Sherman Powers of the Kaws at 165 five pounds to send the invaders home on the long end of a four to three count. Three of the ten bouts ended in draws.

Gordon Hennes for the Kaws and Don Chestlock for the Menashans started things off in the 85 pound class. After two even rounds Hennes appeared to have the fight cinched in the final frame but the official decision was a draw.

James Mayer then outsparred Tony Schuller to give the Kaws a one to nothing margin. After a mild first round Mayer was clearly superior in the last two. Harold Gerrigan of St. Mary's and Elmer Vanderbloomen then battled to the second tie of the evening, but in doing so got in some real slugging. Gerrigan knocked Vanderbloomen down in the second round, and in the third canto three knockdowns were recarded, with Gerrigan down twice, and Vanderbloomen once.

Coopman Wins

St. Mary's tied the matches at 1-1 as Vernon Coopman came through with their first win, taking the decision over Don Siebers. The Kaw fighter had the edge in the first frame but Coopman finished fast to get the nod.

Stocky Ed Mottl of the visitors gave St. Mary's a 2-1 margin by defeating Ralph Lauer. Mottl was given an edge in the first round, the second was even, and Mottl won the third by virtue of sending Lauer to the floor.

Ken Siebers came back to tie matters up a 2-all by outpointing Floyd Ebben in a hard fought bout. An even first round followed by two in which Siebers clearly was the better gave the Kaw fighter the bout. Bob Rieschel of the invaders and John Duffy then fought the third draw of the night. The first round was even, Duffy took the second but could not keep up the pace and Rieschel copped the third to gain a draw.

Finish Is Fast

Coach Marv Miller's men took a 3-2 lead when Ken Schmaltz decisioned Karl Pendergast. After little action in the opening frame Schmaltz kept Pendergast on his heels most of the second round and finished fast to gain the bout.

Bob Niesen showed the hardest punching of the night in trouncing Roy Graf of the Menashans, evening the bouts at 3-3. Niesen, constantly on the offensive, took all three rounds easily. Powers then lost to Van Dyke to give St. Mary's the honors at 4-3.

Kaukauna— H. Minkebige cracked the maples for a 688 count to lead all individual league bowlers last week, sweep three games from Charley Schell, and advance to within two points of J. Eimmerman, current loop pacer. Charley Schell didn't do so badly himself, hitting 616, but Minkebige's counts of 247, 184 and 257 nosed out Schell's 224, 178 and 214.

Several other bowlers approached the 600 mark. Jack Van Lieshout hit 592 on 168, 225 and 202 in sweeping three from J. Eimmerman, and Charley Schell, in another match, had 584 on 134, 222 and 178 to take three from R. Johnson.

J. Scherer totaled 568 on 166, 205 and 197 to take three from B. Lamers, who had 479. H Minkebige's 567 on 192, 183 and 192 gave him his second sweep of the week, taking three from A. Bayorgeon. Bayorgeon had 188, 182 and 171 for 541. In the last match C. Brandt hit 536 on 201, 202 and 133 to take two from W. Alger, who compiled 533 on 181, 176 and 176

A Mr. Billings Is in on This Mooney Thing, Too

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

San Francisco—The time approaches when the state of California will have to throw Tom Mooney out of prison, even at the expense of a full pardon, an apology and perhaps cash indemnity. Mr. Mooney has been a martyr for 22 years, but he is still in good health, and if he were turned loose while sound of wind and limb his death outside San Quentin would have no nuisance power. If he should die in prison, however, notwithstanding the tenderest care, he would become a sacrifice to capitalism and a lower-case Lenin with the communists of the earth.

Pegler

There has been much speculation as to whether Mooney free and sound of wind, as he undoubtedly is, would be more troublesome than Mooney in prison. That seems to be a toss-up. In prison he is a world figure for communist exploitation. He is vain and fond of publicity, and as a free man would surely go on the road as a symbol. He might offer himself as a candidate for president.

But after a time he might talk himself out and fall into disagreements with his comrades, who have shown that they are not above jealousy, even as the contemptible bourgeoisie. He might become a nuisance to them and be shot for treason. It is a point that has been considered hopefully against the fact that if he should die behind capitalistic bars his martyrdom would be permanent.

There are some curious phases of the world-wide agitation for Mr. Mooney which have never been pointed out.

For one thing, Mr. Mooney had a co-defendant in the celebrated preparedness day bombing case of 1916 which killed 10 innocent bystanders and wounded 40. The co-defendant was Warren K. Billings, also a young and bumptious labor slugger, who already had been convicted of transporting dynamite for persuasive purposes and who thus became a second offender or two-time loser.

Billings Is Piqued About This Neglect

But in the long campaign to liberate Mooney Mr. Billings has fallen into the obscurity of Paul Revere's horse. Nobody seems to care much about liberating Mr. Billings, and he has been somewhat piqued about this neglect, and with fair reason.

After the trial Mr. Billings argued that he could not have been bombing at the hour of the disaster because he was conscientiously employed in the noble work of dousing acid on automobiles in the furtherance of a current strike. His innocence is no less well established than his famous colleague's, or, to put it more appetizingly, his guilt is no more convincingly proven. He even produced the automobiles with the acid scars.

But Mr. Billings is no communist and his showmanship is negligible, so the cause has forgotten him—a neglect which must cast doubt on the sincerity of those who say their hearts bleed for Mr. Mooney purely as a victim of capitalistic injustice.

Mr. Billings is a victim in the same degree, but if he should die in Folsom tomorrow the Free Mooney movement would merely sign and say, "Well, it comes to all of us."

He Could Have Gone Out On Parole Long Ago

The case of Mr. Mooney is not as cruel in the physical sense as it has been made to appear by those who have made a minor industry of the campaign to get him out. Not for years has there been any actual question of freeing Mooney in the sense of liberating him from the walls which by newspaper instinct are described as grim and gray.

He could have walked out on parole long ago but has been holding out for a pardon, the full rights of citizenship and the privileges and perquisites of political martyrdom. He is correct in that, to be sure, but his martyrdom is no worse than that of Mr. Billings and a mere incivility by comparison with some thousands of severities practiced on political heretics in Moscow, the spiritual home of the campaign to liberate Tom Mooney.

Both should be forced to leave prison at once, for, as a member of the California legislature remarked at Mooney's reception the other day, their guilt or innocence has ceased to be a matter of proof and has become one of personal conviction.

Governor Wants State to Engage Publicity Boss

LaFollette Thinks Coordination of News Releases Will be Helpful

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Governor LaFollette's program of remaking the pattern of state government and administration, which has created not a little excitement beneath the capitol dome during these last few months, has been temporarily halted, it appeared today.

Busy with other things, including speeches in New York and other places and the very practical matter of party organization, the governor apparently has postponed further action in his governmental modernization program which has been carried forward with remarkable unanimity and precision since January.

The governor's acquiescent committee on reorganization, in three months of work, has already abolished and consolidated half a dozen agencies and bureaus and has shifted more than 50 others.

In addition he has proposed the creation of new offices and bureaus. One of them, a director of publicity for the capitol, is the subject of considerable discussion just now.

The proposal has been subjected to ridicule by some of the administration's critics, and is opposed by some elements supposed to be friendly to the governor's cause.

In brief, the new publicity office is designed to coordinate the miscellaneous promotion workers now hired by capitol departments to get their messages into editorial columns of Wisconsin newspapers.

Need Press Agents

The idea is to spread the distribution of printer's ink among all the officials and departments at the capitol. Some of Wisconsin's high officialdom apparently feels neglected under the present system. There are now about a dozen employes whose job it is to supply free material to editors. But they work for single departments. The others—the great majority—feel the lack of a skilled press agent. The new bureau is intended for them.

Opponents of the Progressive administration fear that the new bureau will be used as a campaign weapon. Rumors circulate now that the new official will get an office beside Governor LaFollette's secretaries in the executive office, where he will do the bidding of the powers that be. Admniistration spokesmen, however, maintain that the setup will be used merely as another step in the process of bringing the government closer to the people. Too many citizens are unaware of the services now offered by their state government, and the benefits, they say. It will be an educational program.

Whatever the design of the new plan, it is an indication that bureaucrats too are becoming interested in public opinion. To politicians the study of public opinion is necessary for continued office-holding. It is their stock in trade, as witnessed in every elective office in the state government.

Governor Likes Publicity

Perhaps in no other capitol office is the art of press agentry more capably handled than in the office of the governor himself. A press secretary sees to it that all executive pronouncements are well distributed. The governor holds conferences with capitol correspondents with a fair degree of regularity. Informal and pleasant, with frank discussion by the chief executive they can be depended upon to get Progressive views into the newspapers.

Similar efficiency prevails in the office of Attorney General Orland S. Loomis, while until recently venerable Levitan, state treasurer, commanded the services of a personal publicity expert. A few weeks ago, however, the reorganization committee took this asset from the treasurer, switched him to the tax commission along with the beverage tax department. Perhaps no other political figure in the state possesses a larger pile of clippings than Uncle Sol. And no other man gets more satisfaction out of them.

Many of the other important state offices are well cared for in the matter of press mention. The conservation department has a full time agent, as has the department of agriculture and markets. The board of health employs an expert to get its views before the public, as does the public service commission, which makes a large volume of news matter available to the press daily.

Thus has a new department of government grown up in the last few years. To this Governor LaFollette will add more, in order to acquaint his constituents with the work of the enterprise which he heads.

Board Schedules Hearing on Sale of Tax Certificates

Resolution Provides for First Step in Disposal Of County Holdings

A public hearing on the sale of delinquent tax certificates on the Moloch Foundry and Machine company, Kaukauna, was set for May 4 by the county board at its closing session this morning with the adoption of a resolution authorizing sale of the certificates at less than their face value by the board if it finds it necessary.

Supervisor George Schaefer explained that the resolution would pave the way for action in case of a possible sale for the plant and that the board need not sell the certificates at less than face value unless it wished to do so. Supervisor Sylvester Esler, Kaukauna, was opposed because he said the request for the sale of the certificates was not made by Kaukauna city officials.

The board reconsidered after voting to table the resolution and it was adopted by a 32 to 7 vote. Those opposed were Supervisors Esler, Long, Scheurle, Steenis, Wichman, Zerbel and Zuitches.

More Parking Space

The building and grounds committee was instructed to investigate the possibility of extending a driveway through the courthouse grounds from Sixth to Seventh streets to provide more parking space and to report to the May session of the board.

Supervisor Mike Jacobs, Appleton, said that there is no need of more parking space at the courthouse and that an outlay of $2,000 or $3,000 would be needless. It also would ruin the appearance of the grounds, he said. Discussing the matter further, Jacobs said that there will be some sentiment expressed for a new courthouse at the May session. He stated that conditions at the courthouse now are congested and that when the new tax listing equipment is secured there would be no place to put it.

Study Flood Conditions

The highway committee will investigate flood conditions for possible control along the Embarrass river and will report at the May session. Appointment of a committee to study the possibility of establishing a county home also was deferred until the May session.

Set Salary

The sheriff's salary for the next term was set at $2,250 per year plus $450 a year for car expenses and fees. The board voted to place the sheriff back on the fee basis at its November session. Supervisors Zerbel, Gunderson and Bottensek opposed the resolution.

Purchase of two light trucks and a motor patrol grader by the highway committee was authorized by the board.

The board voted $150 to underwrite the showing of a wildlife exhibit here in May. The Izaak Walton league, which is sponsoring the exhibit, will return the funds to the county provided enough revenue is secured in the showing of the exhibit.

Supervisor Jess Lathrop explained that placing on file the resolution of the city common council asking for state and federal funds for paving of N. Meade street from Wisconsin avenue north to the superhighway did not mean that the county has turned down the city's request. The highway committee is planning to meet with the city officials to further study the matter and this was provided for in the report of the committee adopted yesterday, he said.

A report of the highway committee which recommended placing on file a resolution of the Wood county board asking for an increase in state highway aid and which also recommended that letters be written to the assemblymen and senators urging them to increase the aid was adopted.

Supervisor Zerbel suggested that annual reports of officers be turned in about a month before the November board meeting so that supervisors could spend more time studying them. The suggestion was referred to the district attorney for study to see that such action would not conflict with regulations.

European Events May Modify U. S. Attitude on War

Issue of Democracy Versus Dictatorship Rapidly Being Crystallized

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—The American people, from one end of the continent to the other, are today discussing the prospects of a European war and possigle participation therein.

Lawrence

Recognition of the foregoing outline of national psychology was the basic reason for the exposition of national policy by the secretary of state, Cordell Hull. But his address will not end the discussion. It is important, therefore, to observe the lines of cleavage which may shortly be expected to appear inside of America.

Primarily, the members of congress and government officials believe that the people of the United States are overwhelmingly against any participation in a European conflict. But while this has been and still is a true statement, events in Europe this week and those about to materialize may greatly modify the situation in America.

In other words, the issue of democracy versus dictatorship is being crystallized so rapidly that it may provoke, so far as the United States is concerned, the same fundamental issue of self-preservation as against autocracy which caused America to act in 1917 alongside of Britain and France.

Peace At Any Price

There are, of course, people who are usually classed as "pacifists" and who would not favor American participation in any war even for self-defense. These folks are often referred to as "peace-at-any-price" advocates. Their number is doubtless very large, but, on the other hand, there are many elements in our population who would favor a war of self-defense if America was not involved in a strictly European quarrel, too.

All these groups, however, may find some of their members moving over to another group—the people who become convinced that America should not wait until another World war has broken out before interposing her influence and perhaps a show of her armament to forestall such an event.

Back in 1914, Great Britain hesitated to announce her policy in the event of an invasion of Belgium, and the delay is said to have encouraged Germany to proceed. It is often contended that had British policy been more clear in advance of July, 1914, the European war might have been averted. So also might it be said that, if the kaiser's government had really believed that the United States would actually send an army overseas, there would have been less inclination to take a chance on a war with France.

Can State Policy

Today, the United States, the wealthiest and mightiest nation on earth, can stand aloof and let Britain and France enter a life-and-death struggle for democracy, and then, when the Hitler armies have gained an ascendancy, find it necessary for the United States, after all, to enter the conflict. Or else the United States can assume that her rights are bound to be violated in the next world war, as they were in the last, and let the world know in advance what America would do to defend her rights.

In a sense, Secretary Hull's speech was so written that it could answer the query of Europe as to what America might do in another world war in which her rights are violated. But it will take more pronouncements of policy and much more definite language than Secretary Hull has just used for Germany to be impressed with the seriousness of American purpose.

Likewise, there will be elements inside the United States, sincere and well-intentioned, who, in their desire to prevent America from entering a war, will seek to attack statements of American policy and thus weaken their effect abroad.

Proper Definition

If ever there was a time to let the department of state speak for the American people in the matter of foreign policy, it is the present. But if the debate between pacifist and anti-pacifist does start, the real question will not be whether one group favors American participation in a world war and the other does not. The problem will be how the same, objective—prevention of a world war, as well as any American participation in it—can be attained through the proper definition of American aims and purposes.

If Europe knows in advance that the greatest food granary in the world, the greatest storehouse of gold and raw materials and the greatest factories which can manufacture untold quantities of guns and ships and airplanes will be ready to defend the cause of democracy if provocation does come, then it seems incredible that any German leader would be possessed of such madness as to plunge the German people into war once more.

For the next war will not be fought with the same solidarity behind the lines of the Germanic armies in central Europe as was the case in 1914. Rather will it proceed with dissension and friction and perhaps revolution threatened, because people instinctively want freedom and liberty and they will know they have a better chance of getting it if democracy conquers than if dictatorship is further entrenched. America's task now is to help to prevent war by indicating clearly and unequivocally at the right time that her might and resources will not be withheld from the scales if Germany starts another world war.

Kimberly Youth Is Held at Jail

Police Radio System Used In Arrest of Virgil Williams, 21

Arrested in Oshkosh early this morning following a complaint from a Menasha filling station that he had driven away without paying for 10 gallons of gas, Virgil Williams, 21, Henry street, Kimberly, was held at the Outagamie county jail today.

Williams ordered the gasoline and when Loyal Stephenson went into the station for some oil, Williams drove away, Menasha police were told. Stephenson caught the license number and telephoned the Menasha police station.

A call was put on the 4-county police radio station WAKE at Oshkosh and 12 minutes later Williams was stopped by Oshkosh police at the Winnebago county fair grounds. Investigation revealed that the automobile was owned by the Wolter Motor company, Appleton, and had been driven from William Van Zeeland's yard in Kimberly. Chief of Police Alex Slomski of Menasha said.

Fourteen cartons of cigarets were found in the car. Chief Slomski said that Williams claimed he had purchased them in Kimberly last week from someone whom he did not know.

The youth was turned over to Outagamie county authorities today.

Boys who took the course last year and obtained a card are not required to repeat the instruction this year. Due to a change in the child labor law, caddies working at the municipal course must be employed by the agency operating the course, Bertram said.

Honkamp Will Speak at Manitowoc, Two Rivers

Elmer R. Honkamp, district chairman of the state coalition committee, will talk on the coalition movement at a meeting of the state directors of the Union party tomorrow afternoon at Two Rivers.

Honkamp will speak on the same subject over the Manitowoc radio station at 12:30 Monday afternoon.

Urges Union Party To Back Coalition In State Politics

Must Combat LaFollette-New Deal Alliance, Honkamp Declares

Joint effort of Republican, Democratic and Union parties is the "only way of combating the coalition which has been effected between the LaFollette party in Wisconsin and the present New Deal heads in Washington," Elmer R. Honkamp, district chairman of the Eighth congressional district of the coalition committee, said in a talk before the Outagamie county Union party last night in the courthouse.

"How either the Democratic or Republican chiefs expect in a 4-way race in Wisconsin to reduce the 1936 amazing majority of Philip LaFollette cannot be explained," Honkamp said. "The Democratic party in Wisconsin is again to be betrayed in 1938."

The coalition movement in Wisconsin is being opposed by "those who are in control of the Democratic and Republican parties," Honkamp said. "Mr. Corcoran of the Democratic committee does not feel he can come along with coalition because he will not be permitted to do so. Mr. Samp of the Republican committee is going about the state telling the oft-defeated Republicans that 'this is their year to win'."

Democratic and Republican heads in the state "refuse to admit conditions for what they are," Honkamp, who is Outagamie County Republican chairman, declared.

Governor 'Astute'

"Governor LaFollette is an astute politician," Honkamp said. "He has not lost any perceptible ground since his election. If he has, he has more than regained it by just one bill out of the many passed at the 1937 special session. The bill to which I refer is the bill which permits him to single-handedly reorganize the governmental offices of the state. Through his dispensation of patronage under this bill, he is able to create a greater and more solid political machine for his personal advancement than he ever had before."

Honkamp told the county Union party members to "forget the pipe dreams of salaried politicians" and support the coalition movement.

Joseph Walsh, Potosi, Union party candidate for Governor in 1936, told the assembly that "it is the Farmer Labor Progressive federation in Wisconsin and not the Progressive party" that holds offices in the state.

"You members of the Union party are the real Progressives and you are not Socialists. There is no Progressive party in office in Wisconsin. It is the LaFollette party."

The Union party, Walsh said, has "no alternative but to join hands with those no matter from what party and as coalitionists uproot the Farmer Labor Progressive federation."

New Post Office Is Anticipated For New London

U. S. Department Renews Lease on Present Building for Only 2 Years

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington — While New London has not yet been allocated funds for a new post office and federal building, the Post Office department has anticipated the possibility of construction of a new building there within the next few years.

Consequently, the department followed its usual policy in connection with leases of buildings for offices where the receipts are more than $10,000 a year by renewing the lease on the present building for only two years, with an option on it for three additional years.

The interdepartmental public buildings committee has previously estimated that it can buy a site and build an adequate post office at New London for $69,000.

All post offices with annual receipts of $10,000 or more are eligible for federal buildings. The speed with which the entire program is carried out depends upon the funds appropriated by congress.

Under the latest allocations, the policy was adopted of building one building in each congressional district, unless the district's quota was rather well filled, in order to spread government construction, and its consequent employment opportunities, as widely as possible.

Forensic Contest Is Presented at Manawa School

Entire Group to Enter Conference Competition At Amherst

Manawa — The forensic season opened officially at Manawa High school, Friday, when all contestants participated in a local contest. Two orations were presented. It analyzed the neutrality bill and presented a possible solution for the problem. The second oration was entitled "What Youth Seeks Today Is Security," by Walter Wandtke. This pointed out that the position of youth today is insecure, but that insecurity is a challenge to youth. Following the orations, Gordon Barrington and George Brooks each gave extemporaneous speeches.

The last part of the program was a humorous declamation, "At the Declam Contest," by Ruth Lindsay. The faculty acted as judges, but withheld decisions until after the contests at Amherst.

All of the forensic speakers who took part in the event here Friday will enter the conference meet at Amherst next Tuesday afternoon and evening. The oratory and extempore speaking groups will compete in the afternoon, while the declamatory and reading contests will be held in the evening.

BEGGARS IN CALIFORNIA

There are a good many beggars in California.

In fact there are more beggars to the block than probably can be found anywhere else in America.

Probably these men and women must be classified under the one-third ill-clothed, ill-housed and ill-fed.

But what is the reason for this poverty in the presence of so much wealth?

How can we ever abolish poverty unless we understand the causes?

There are many causes, nearly as many as there are beggars. For, although economic conditions may certainly be the cause of poverty, there are a high number of individual or personal causes.

Looking over casually but one edition of a California newspaper we single out some of the causes of California beggars. We read:

> "A group of Los Angeles men, who last fall invested in a new Texas oil development, on March 10, 1938 got word that for every $2400 they invested the value is now estimated at not less than $250,000, or over $100 for every dollar they invested. That is what happens when you hit. Would you like to give yourself an opportunity to make a fortune like this, easily and quickly? Don't put it off. We know one man who waited too long on the opportunity outlined above."

Passing from the foregoing advertisement we dip into a whole column of similar fakes and buncoes and read:

> "You can win playing the races! I am winning $3 to $10 a day on practically no capital ever since I came into possession of the winning secret of one of the largest betting syndicates of London, England. I want every small better to have this information. Believe me, it is a life-saver."

Strangely enough we find interlarded in the same column the statement that "the Keeley Treatment" is the only authentic and reliable way of curing alcoholism.

America should be ashamed enough of the beggars upon its streets to hunt out and submerge the cause insofar as it may be done away with but America should be sufficiently educated to know that the fact that those who neither spin nor work and yet live well off others are the direct cause of the others poverty.

PERMANENT RELIEF PLAN

Cleveland has taken the first step toward settling up a long-range relief and unemployment program. The labor relations committee of the City Council called together representative of industry, labor and governmental and welfare agencies for this purpose. There is action on the long obvious—but rarely admitted—fact that unemployment and relief are permanent, not emergency, problems. They may grow more severe at times, less severe at others, but they do not disappear. They existed even in the boom years of 1928-29.

The group began by listing the factors about which more facts must be known if a sound policy is to be worked out. They found they needed to know how many persons constitute permanent relief cases; why there are thousands unemployed even at a prosperity peak; what measures can be taken to insure employment for all employables in good times; what kind of care should be provided for various types of relief cases; where the money should come from for this work; what is the future of employment locally as nearly as it can be determined now.

Private charitable organizations faced the long-range, "permanent" problems of poverty years ago. Public authorities are only beginning to do so. If they succeed in establishing a sane, constructive continuing program, future depressions will lose some of their evil force and may be modified and shortened. The economic and industrial causes and effects ought to be studied in the same way. We are still too inclined to tackle individual items as if they could be isolated and cured individually.

NAZI CO-EDS

American college girls, with their social life, campus leisure and long vacations, might find life rather wearing in Germany. Ease and leisure are gone for German co-eds. The general shortage of labor, resulting from national concentration on armament, makes feminine hands needed in the fields, and the college girls must help.

They are taught, anyway, the principle of all-around service to the state. So the girls must give labor in what otherwise would be vacation time. They are expected to volunteer their services to farmers during the harvest period and go into the factories to relieve regular workers there during their winter holidays. There are regular "academic factory squads" in the industrial section of western Germany.

It probably does no harm on the whole. But there must be many of those girl students to whom the transition from mental to physical work comes hard.

An outsider naturally wonders, too, about the quality of German university education under a system which, while making girl students labor like hired men, has also driven into exile so many eminent college professors.

THE COMMON MAN'S CHANCE

An American foreign correspondent who has lived for years in the Danubian region returned to the United States recently for a visit. He observes many things about this country which the citizen who has stayed here right along often overlooks. Writing in the Christian Science Monitor, this observer tells of his sharpest impressions on his return.

First was the fact that this was "everybody's America." How different peoples have come here and, without losing their own characteristics entirely, have become Americans, seemed to him to be illustrated by the names of men and women who are doing things—mayors, governors, police chiefs, composers, popular writers, star athletes and all the rest. The names are Italian, Scandinavian, southeastern European, Teutonic, Slavic, and so on. The individuals are Americans.

He was impressed further by the fact that democracy is operating that the people still run the country and in the main do their own governing. It is not so in Fascist, Nazi and Communist lands.

Again, the returned American was impressed—even in this time of recession—by the flood of this world's goods available to so many of us, luxuries and conveniences which are entirely missing in a large part of Europe and which only rulers and the very wealthy even hope to have over there.

He does not deceive himself that America is anybody's Utopia. There are serious wrongs here which must be righted, reforms to be started, problems to be solved. But they will be accomplished by a system that is "giving the common men immeasurably more than they ever had before."

AMERICAN FESTIVALS

The last tedious days of winter are made more bearable by the plans for spring which precede its visible arrival. The individual gardener begins early with his seed catalogs. Communities also begin with clean-up campaigns for the practical side and flower festivals for the esthetic. The latter seem to be gaining in number and in public interest.

One of the early festivals of this sort is the annual Puyallup Valley Daffodil Festival in Washington when the whole countryside blooms with cheerful golden flowers and the people turn out to enjoy them. Holland, Michigan, has its tulip display even as the land from which its settlers came and its name was taken. In Door county there is the cherry blossom festival, when the orchards from which come so many cherry pies and jars of cherry preserves are in full flower.

Down through the Shenandoah Valley every spring goes a great caravan of motorists eager to witness the beauty of that region's spring flowering. In many parts of the country there are other beauties—apple and peach orchards, wild areas of exquisite laurel and rhododendron, cultivated roses, acres of other loveliness.

Most of these beautiful features have been with us a long time, but it is in recent years only that we have paid so much attention to them. The automobile, the good highway and more leisure have created in America both the opportunity and the will for such enjoyment.

MORE INCHES AND POUNDS

The American college girl continues to grow. The 1938 girl is taller, heavier, broader-shouldered and generally stronger than her mother and grandmother. Measurements recorded through the years at many colleges show this.

There are various reasons for the steady development. Exercise and the popularity of athletics receive first credit. Other factors are better nutrition in infancy, less communicable disease, higher standards of living, better understanding of health needs and hygiene.

There is no particular value in increased stature alone. But there is much of economic and social value in the changes which have produced the better developed young people. There is the greater freedom which has made sports and athletics possible for girls. There is the economic saving through better health and less illness.

So far, unfortunately, there is little evidence that these gains are accompanied by gains in mental power or spiritual understanding. Human beings today seem on the whole to be no farther advanced in these qualities than their parents or grandparents. Here is a field for the special attention of educators and religious leaders.

The marines are the oldest branch of the U. S. armed service, having been established by Congress in 1775.

Many historians rank the invention of the hand-mill for grinding grain as the second greatest event in the march of civilization. The discovery of fire is ranked first.

Downing street, residence of the British prime ministers, was named for Sir George Downing, a 17th century secretary of the treasury.

A BROADSIDE FROM 14 INCH GUNS

Dear Jonah:

But the Baleares was no ferryboat.

She was no ferry boat but she was an example of the "narrow gutted monstrosities" which were inflicted on the navies of the world by the Washington naval treaty. She was NOT a battleship and was not intended to lie in the line of battle. She had only two inch side armor and deck and her beam of only sixty four feet was insufficient to allow for enough subdivision to make her torpedo proof. She was not complete, her after turret never having been shipped. She had six eight inch, eight four point seven and eight two pounder pom-pom guns. She could dish out terrific punishment but could take none. She was not even immune to destroyer guns. All of the ten thousand tonners have the same faults, including our own. A good argument for the battleship.

The Espana, ex Alfonso XIII was mined and sunk on April 30, 1937. At the time the press reported she was sunk by an aerial bomb down the smoke stack, apparently never having heard of armored gratings. She was hardly a modern battleship anyway, being smaller and as lightly armored as the British battle cruisers which took part in the World war. The Nagato was supposed to have been sunk by Chinese planes last November but as she was undergoing modernization in a Japanese dockyard at the time there seems to be some doubt as to her loss.

HELP! HELP! HELP!

For six days of publication, starting Tuesday, March 22, this daily headache will be under the supervision of STOO. Your correspondent is taking a week's vacation, much to the delight of everyone, except his creditors. Don't let Stoo down, folks. Take care of him properly.

* * *

Monday's column will be cared for by your customary annoyer. The next six will fall into the hands of Stoo. So long as flying weather remains good and the motors hold up, there will be no more than six from Stoo. Yup, when your correspondent realized that the airlines will carry your better half free this month, he found it necessary to make good on a promise to his better half and take her for a trip.

REFERRED TO THE VICE-PRESIDENT IN CHARGE OF SPELLING

Jonah:

They say that imitation is the sincerest flattery. I trust however that the spelling of Lord Macaulay's name in yesterday's editorial column was not due to your fondness for the President and/or his ghost writers, who used the spelling "Macauley not so very long ago.

The telephone is normally quite a boon to your correspondent as he struggles to earn a living. Yesterday, however, he jumped every time the darned thing jangled. It has never failed to happen that, when he was trying to wind up and sneak out early, each phone call meant something else to do. On a newspaper you don't let things go until you come back.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

DAILY I PRAYED . . .

Daily I prayed for patience;
And all I might have had
Is captured in the vision
Of one small crippled lad.

I strove for resignation.
Who should have been resigned,
To see that virtue beaming
In eyes that long were blind.

I prayed for faith and found it—
Not in my mirrored eyes—
But in an old man's outlook,
Through sorrowing made wise.

I strove for understanding,
And found humility
In hearts that carried burdens
That would have shattered me!

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

PHYSIOLOGY

Listen, both of you. It is better not to know so much than to know so many things that ain't so. A person may enjoy perfect health or vite, for instance, altho he knows nothing about the function of the colon. On the other hand, if a person knows many things about the colon that "ain't so" he or she is more likely to suffer with colon derangement, a state to which the Wiseacres of America are too fond of applying the misleading name "mucous colitis."

Mucus (the noun) is the normal secretion of mucous (adjective) membranes. Mucous membranes line every cavity or organ that communicates with the outside world. The mucous serves to protect the mucous membrane against injury or irritation by foreign bodies; it keeps the mucous membrane soft and moist; it entangles bacteria and destroys them; it is an ideal natural lubricant. All this applies to the secretion of normal mucous membranes in any part of the body —eye, nose, throat, bronchial passage, mouth, stomach, intestine.

Wiseacres not too deeply hypnotized by plausible food "specialists" should earnestly endeavor to dismiss from their minds the notion that mucous is abnormal or pathological and that the appearance of an excess of it in the dejecta is a sign of serious trouble and indicates the need of an enema or irrigation or bowel wash to "clear it out."

Mucus secreted by the colon is not in itself harmful in any way nor "poisonous" to the individual in any circumstance. On the contrary, whether the mucus is ordinary or extraordinary in quantity, it serves rather to protect against harm by irritation or from injury by any poisonous substance which may be present.

When there is an increased flow of mucus one could scarcely resort to a course more likely to aggravate and prolong the trouble than is a so-called colon irrigation or bowel wash or enema of any description. Such unnatural interference invariably excites an increased flow of mucus — nature's self-defense against such irritation. Pathetic is the state of the Wiseacre who gets into the enema or bowel wash habit—a vicious circle which insidiously exhausts vite and destroys physiological resilience.

Frequent enemas, temporarily removing the normal mucus which is so necessary as a softener and lubricant for the delicate mucous membrane, predispose to local infections by robbing the mucosa of its natural protection against coarse, rough or foreign bodies and its natural safeguard against bacterial invasion.

Application of medicaments by enema, irrigation, etc., is a valuable aid in treating certain conditions, under the supervision of the physician. Frequent or habitual use of so-called "cleansing" enemas is harmful. They prevent proper peristaltic action and sometimes cause dilation of the colon. It is not advisable to use enemas in any circumstances except under the advice and specific instructions of the physician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Merits

What are the relative merits of (a remedy offered as an antiseptic and germicide) and iodine? Is it true that iodine burns the tissue? (E. H. M.)

Answer—I move aside various samples or trial packages of the remedy you mention to get the iodin when I need a first aid disinfectant—and I have to buy tincture of iodin under its official Pharmacopoeial spelling of iodine, at that. A single application of tincture of iodine (durn 'em) as universally advised for first aid disinfection of wounds, does not burn tissues, altho it bites like everything for a moment. Repeated applications of iodin should be made only under individual medical advice. The momentary smarting upon application of iodin—as for sensitive canker sores in the mouth—is followed by relief of irritation, pain or soreness which compensates one for the bite. Then, too, have more confidence in the disinfectant efficiency of iodine.

Too Bad

More than two weeks ago I wrote you inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope. Have never heard from you. (G. F.)

About a week ago I requested that you send me some monographs. Up to the present time I have not received same. (H. K.)

Hay Fever

Please tell me how to take the calcium lactate for hay fever. I have been a sufferer for several years, and my season begins about the first of June. (P. H. B.)

Answer—Take ten grains of calcium lactate three times a day aftermeals for eight or ten weeks. With it be sure to get a daily ration of vitamin D. Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for monograph on hay fever.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If March 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m.; from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m.; from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m., and from 9:30 to 11:30 p. m.

You must keep your eyes open and ears alert this day because there will be many things worth both seeing and hearing. Fight off any inclination to be grouchy, if you don't want your day spoiled. Much important information will be lost this day, due to conversations being monopolized so that many a person with interesting news will have no opportunity to tell it. Equivocations and ambiguous insinuations will cause a great amount of mental agitation, so it will be good judgement to allow nothing to tempt your resorting to either in trying to accomplish anything. Do not try this day to live up to the standards prescribed by some old traditions, instead of those advocated by modern men and women. Progressive thinking ought to make the average person amenable to any kind of logical reasoning, with the result that much good is liable to come from it. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, must be prepared to play the game of life fairly and above board this day.

If a woman and March 20 is your birthday, your love of companionship should enable you to win a large circle of admiring friends. You must try to select the work for which you have the necessary qualifications to do successfully, otherwise you may find yourself feeling like a square peg trying to fit into a round hole. Avoid being too analytical if you would save yourself from many disappointments. You most likely are able to impart knowledge to others with a remarkable amount of ease. You ought to have very little difficulty in selling any idea that you are enthusiastic about. You may acquire a considerable sum of money, and live to enjoy many luxuries. As a musician, singer, professional entertainer, sales executive, shop owner, author, teacher or artist you probably will win a reputation that will be a profitable asset. Married life should have many advantages and a great deal of hppiness to offer to you.

The child born on Mrch 20, generally is very optimistic and has much faith not only in itself, but in those who are near and dear to it. This youngster is apt to have a brilliant future as a reward for hard work.

If a man and March 20 is your natal day, be careful not to become self-centered or selfish, if you wish to gain recognition and a substantial bank account. As an educator, actor, artist, journalist, author, dentist, doctor, lawyer, engineer, sales agent or manufacturer there are few limitations that will handicap your ambitious under-takings.

Successful people born on March 20:

Neal Dow, Reformer.
Charles William Eliot, Educator.
John G. Walker, Naval officer.
Mrs. Bellamy Storer,
Originator of Rockwood pottery.
Lucy M. W. Mitchell,
Archaeologist.
David H.Greer, Clergyman.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—It's all in the day's chore, talking to . . . Lowell Thomas, who is paid $500 a night for speaking to his public. . . . John Lanz, the blind news-dealer, who says nobody ever cheats him . . . Lani McIntyre, the Hawaiian impresario, who wants to go to Tahiti because you can live there on $50 a year.

Sally Rand, the fan-dancer, who says she is uninterested in matrimony, and that she'll retire "a rich old maid" at the age of 60. . . . Alexander Wollcott, who complains he can't get his make-up on straight without taking off his glasses, and that he can't see to get the make-up on when he does take them off . . . Baron Von Deuth, the Viennese editor whose flowering white mane and rimless monocle have made him New York's most continental Manhattanite.

Libby Holman, the former torch singer who wears large black glasses on white frames to keep from drawing attention to herself. . . . Jed Harris, who thinks George S. Kaufman and George Abbott are the only really worthwhile writers left in the theater . . . S. Gregory Taylor, who came over from Greece as an authority on Turkish rugs and remained to acquire one hotel after another.

Salvador Dali, head of the surrealist art movement in New York, who once painted a portrait of his wife with her chin resting on a veal cutlet . . . Lillian Gish, who thinks No. 11 East 14th street should be made into a museum, because that's where the movies were born.

Al Woods, whose new show is interrupted by a squad of policemen every night who "pinch" the show (It's part of the action but done so realistically that one reporter on opening night raced out and telephoned his city editor) . . . John LaGatta, the artist, whose illustrations are noted for their "style appeal" . . . George M. Cohan, who insist on having his initials embroidered on all his shirts.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Notes on statesmanship:

Immeasurable Note — Senator Josh Lee, "boy orator" of Oklahoma, says the objections raised against his bill to take the profits out of war are "about as thin as soup made from the shadow of a pigeon's wing that died of starvation."

Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico has introduced a bill proposing construction of a national broadcasting station near San Diego to disseminate friendly propaganda among the Latin American neighbors southward. Chavez-New Mexico-San Diego—that Latin combination can't be surpassed for Spanish-toned cars.

Quaking Note —After the 1906 earthquake which messed up San Francisco, the government established concrete monuments for 300 miles along the San Andreas fault line in California. By measuring how the measurements had twisted or slanted each five years it was planned to get data on when the next slip would occur. Not since 1929 have they been surveyed and Rep. Tolan of California won House approval for an appropriation of $4,450 for a new survey. With this survey, he said, the government "will have facts and data that might save thousands of human lives." But a senate committee, less alarmed, knocked it out.

Fewer Cans and Bottles

The thousand sizes of cans and bottles on grocer's shelves would be reduced to about ten under a bill which Rep. Harry Sauthoff of Wisconsin is defending before the House committee on coinage, weights and measures. The idea of a few uniform sizes of cans and bottles has been supported by cooperative food stores many years.

Where's John? Note—rep. Hoffman, Michigan Republican, was invited to talk to a group of hosiery workers in Reading, Penn. At Baltimore a policeman intercepted him with a request to call his Washington office. There was a telegram signed Raymond B. Troutman advising him "internal dissension" had caused the meeting to be cancelled. He returned to Washington only to learn, two days later, that the real Raymond B. Trautman, a hosiery magazine editor, had not sent such a telegram and was disappointed when Hoffman failed to appear. Hoffman, a Republican, has appealed to the G-men. He says personal investigation disclosed a mysterious "John" had sent the telegram.

Country Boys Scored

Your favorite congressman may be great shakes out in Wagon-wheel Gap but a Washingtonian wrote this about the boys in a letter to a local paper:

"It is about time that these hick congressmen are brought to realize that they may be big splurges in the sticks, but in the nation's capital they are just ordinary persons and have no license to disregard the traffic or any other regulations." So there.

Rep. Merritt of New York has written to the commanding officer of Fort Hancock, near Sandy Hook, New Jersey, asking permission for one of his constituents to fish off the fort pier. The constituent protested in a letter that the officers wouldn't let him.

WHY A SCHOOL FOR WORKERS?

Editor Post-Crescent—In answer to the letter in Thursday's paper on workers education I want to say briefly, "Why should labor have special classes when we have schools here that the workers can attend"?

Labor is taking too much for granted in this community when they begin study of business and its doings. It would be better if they had studies that would promote business and industry instead of studying organizational work.

We have enough disruptive force in the community without wanting to develop a bunch of agitators.

How can business cooperate with labor when labor is studying how to chisel the employers.

I understand that there are about 25 or 30 who gather each Monday to study workers problems. Instead of just trying to benefit themselves it would be far better to try to benefit the whole community.

A Worker.

You know, 'bout this time of the year, when the snow is on the ground, and the weather ain't so hot, most of the menfolks just sit around the house wonderin' what to do with theirself. No yard to rake. No garden to tend. No chores, much, to do. So they just kind of git in everybody's way.

This is a good time to start your child on a musical career, for by the time school lets out in June, he will be well advanced and can then enjoy his summer vacation with music.

Don't let your child grow up to say, "I wish I could play an instrument but I never had a chance."

Banish Bogey of Wet Feet and Add Style at Coppens

Expert Shoe Rebuilders Solve Footwear Problems For You This Spring

The old bogey of wet feet is present too often at this time of year and yet, when you stop to think of it, it should be no bogey at all with a little attention given to footwear. Wet feet—unless one gets into water over the shoe-tops—are generally unnecessary along with the sniffles and colds that so often accompany them. The answer is to be found in sturdy footwear that shuts out bad weather.

Expensive? Not at all if you depend upon Coppens Shoe Rebuilders, 119 E. College avenue. Here, at no sacrifice of style, your shoes can be restored to like new condition at low cost in a very short time, guaranteeing you strong, serviceable footwear which will protect your feet from wet and cold.

Shoes rebuilt the Coppens way undergo special treatment with factory shoe equipment producing splendid new shoe results at no extra cost to the customer. The equipment is of the type not generally found in shoe repair shops enabling Coppens to turn out superior brands of work with a much higher degree of efficiency, economy, and speed.

It is unnecessary to come downtown to have Coppens attend to your shoes. A telephone call to 711 will bring Coppens' free delivery service to pick up the footwear and to return it when finished.

With the beginning of spring only a few days off, it is time to check over the wardrobe and select the shoes that will be worn later on. Sending them to Coppens now means that they will be ready to wear on the first real spring day.

Davidson Candidate In Aldermanic Race

Waupaca — "Tommy" Davidson entered the race for alderman of the Fourth ward Friday. His papers were brought to him before breakfast, and circulated throughout the day by friends. He has served in the past as an alderman for 15 years, most of that time on the board of public works.

Mr. Davidson was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1854, coming to this country in 1880. Since 1886 he has been a resident of Waupaca.

He served under Mayors Ed Nelson, Felix Paronto, Dr F. E. Chandler and Archibald Gmeiner. His last term expired two years ago.

Mr. Davidson will oppose Lester Laux, who was recently appointed alderman to succeed Roy Rasmuss, resigned.

Mayor F. R. Fisher also will have opposition in the coming election for Irving Erickson, president of the council, entered the race Friday and his papers are being circulated.

shucks, it's just like fallin' off'n a log. A few slap dabs and you've got a brand new bathroom, kitchen or living room table. You know this Pittsburgh Wallhide and Waterspar dries in just a few hours. An' one coat'll make thinks shine like they was brand new.

Why don't you try paintin' up 'stead of just sittin' 'round? Drop by the Appleton Glass and Paint company, 410 W. College avenue. They'll sell you this Pittsburgh Paint very inexpensive. Prices are low on Wallhide (that's the wall paint, you know) and for the Watersper Enamel (for the furniture).

In the words of Snider's patrons, it is a place that is just better. You are invited to visit this popular eating place at your next opportunity and satisfy yourself as to its superiority.

Appleton Travel Bureau Maps Out Variety of Spring and Summer Tours

Many people from Appleton and nearby communities will be sailing July 1 either from Quebec, Canada on the "Empress of Australia" of the Canadian Pacific Line or on the "S. S. Columbus" of the North German Lloyd Line for a six to seven week's tour of foreign countries, depending on their selection of either the southern tour, headed by Albert Glocksin and Miss Elsie Bohstedt, or the Northern tour, headed by Francis Proctor of the Lawrence Conservatory. Offering a choice between these two routes, the southern and the northern, the third annual Lawrence tour to Europe is definitely scheduled, and since 1928 promises to outdo all previous years of European travel, it is to your advantage if you contemplate making either of these tours, to contact the Appleton Travel Bureau, located in the Zuelke Building, and consult Miss Bohstedt, Business Manager of the Bureau, regarding details and consequently make advance registrations to assure most pleasant accomodations.

Reservations on the Lawrence tours are made in order of application and should your plans for next summer's vacation be changed, any deposit that you make will be refunded in full up to June first. You will, of course, be under no obligation in visiting the Travel Bureau's offices and making enquiry regarding either one of these tours or others which are scheduled.

Of immediate interest, however, are the seven spring vacation tours which the Travel Bureau is offering at this time by rail and water to the east, including Washington D. C. and vicinity, affording people the opportunity to enjoy Washington at Cherry Blossom Time, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York City, Williamsburg, Virginia, Jamestown, Yorktown, and Richmond, leaving April 10, 14, and Easter Sunday, April 17. These, too, like the European trips, are personally conducted all expense tours. Again full particulars and descriptive folders concerning these spring vacation tours are available on call at the Travel Bureau.

Regarding the two European routes, the southern and northern, it is impossible, of course, to touch upon the magnificent sight-seeing to be done on each of the tours in complete detail. Miss Bohstedt will be pleased to discuss these various points with any interested or potentially interested persons and a telephone call to 4635 will arrange an appointment. It is unnecessary to be connected with Lawrence College in any way to make either one of these tours.

Today's Conditions Go Beyond War, Peace, Is Technocrats' Contention

(Editor's Note—This article has been prepared by, and hence represents the beliefs of, Technocracy, Inc.)

The state of bewilderment and sense of futility that lang like a pall over the peoples of Christendom are commonly laid to the Great War and the strange peace, conceived in terms of mutual defeat that marked its provisional close. These events are viewed as the immediate causal circumstances that gave rise alike to the decade of golden opportunities and its collapse in the relentless retreat of "values" that continue to march past day after day in columns of three—"high," "low," "close."

But, as everyone knows, there were more remote events out of which the Great War and the unstable peace unfolded. And, so historians, statesmen, philosophers, economists, bankers, business men and politicians explore the background in search of the "fundamental" causes which they discuss in conflicting accounts of their explorations. Thus, we are buffeted by events and currents of opinion which bewilder and confuse.

Living in the twentieth century, these explorers of the past would go to their work under guidance of the twentieth century point of view. But it happens in this fourth decade of the twentieth century that the current point of view covers an extremely wide area of thought with rapidly shifting frontiers. Within its boundaries the ancient principles (habits of thought) which guided men's action in the days of pagan antipathy still do service. We rationalize and debate after the manner of the schoolmen of the middle ages: we think and act under the principles of right, equity, propriety, duty, belief and taste as stabilized in the days of the handicraft guilds of Central Europe.

Factors Change

During the last century and a half, a series of ever-changing material factors have unfolded at an accelerating rate within the field of industrial activity. Coincident with the introduction of these swiftly moving technological changes there developed, both independently and consequent upon their introduction, a new matter-of-fact way of looking at facts and events and of dealing with an ever-increasing range of problems, — the modern scientific point of view.

The eighteenth century saw the introduction of the powered machine, which was first conceived as an extension of the hand operations of craftsmen. The close of the nineteenth century witnessed the machine process occupying a dominant place in the technological scheme and reshaping men's habits and methods of thinking. The turn of the century marked the introduction and the accelerating rise, under guidance of science, of the modern, continuous technological processes of production. In this new industrial order the machine was no longer conceived as an extension of the hand tool; it became a moving mechanical element in a sequence of events the course and rate of which had been arranged and ordered in strict accordance with the exact quantitative calculations of science. Men in the fields of scientific inquiry and technological research, the same as those directly engaged in technological employment, gradually ceased to think in terms of workmanlike efficiency of a given cause working to like effect; they began to think in terms of process.

The Accounting

The work of accounting for the present state of affirs falls, naturally, to those whose interest and preoccupations revolve about the institution of absentee ownership with our system of pecuniary evaluation and pecuniary canons of taste. They explain the present in terms of this institution, its system of evaluation and the range of faiths and beliefs that stand to support it. It follows that these men who so attempt to account for the present situation as well as those who are called upon to do something about it are drawn from occupations most widely removed from the technological and scientific thought and activities which serve to mark off and distinguish the last half century from the entire period of time that lies in the background.

But the men of science and of technology are likewise concerned with the present precarious state of the common welfare and the general atmosphere of futility, and it is not to be wondered at that they should turn their attention to the causal circumstances out of which the present condition of affairs unfolded. Nor is it to be wondered at that they should interest themselves in what should be done about it.

They read the accounts of historians, statesmen and economists with their constant reference to a "normal" course of things. To the scientist, this insistence upon a "normal" course of things or a beneficent run of events bars out any serious consideration of the explanations offered. Nor do these scientists and technologists understand why all these explorers should forever busy themselves with the facts of ownership and pecuniary values while ignoring altogether the accelerating rate of change that is going on in the processes of technology. They do not understand the current accounts of what has happened or the proposals as to what should be done about it. For the entire range of facts and events dealt with lies completely outside the range of facts and events with which they are concerned in their own accounts, viz. the accelerating rate of change in the state of the industrial arts and the corresponding accelerating rate of energy conversion. To these men of matter-of-fact and of quantitative measurements, with their knowledge of our energy resources and our ways and means of turning them to the account of the common welfare, the current proposals looking toward a return to better times are utterly beside the point.

Home Should Be Primary Force in Child Training

BY ANGELO PATRI

The report of the social investigator was read to a shocked audience. "So many thousand criminals under twenty years of age. Awful! Almost a million children gone wrong. The schools are not doing their duty. The schools have failed us."

I cannot speak about the number of young criminals. I know there are too many. One would be too much. But after a lifetime spent in schools I declare with all the force that experience has granted me that the schools have not failed. They have done their full duty and gone far beyond it in an effort to make up for the deficiencies today, and has been functioning for the past twenty-five years.

Home, for many reasons, turned over to the schools the teaching and training of the children, in all their ways. The training and discipline that home used to supply was left to the teacher. The reasons for this do not matter here. What matters is the fact, and that fact, bald and bare, explains why so many children are on the wrong side of society's books.

School is an extension of home, but it never can be home. The teacher is the servant of mother and father, but he can never be mother or father to the children, efficient and devoted though he is. There is a relation between parent and child that no other human being can establish. There is an emotional reaction to home that no other place on earth can ever produce. Home, in all its phases, is the essential background and the essential force in the life-training of its children.

The attitude of home toward religion becomes the attitude of its children. If the father and mother attend church, take the children to Sunday School, interest them in what goes on in church circles until they become the spiritual environment of the children, religion influences the family for good and righteous living. If no religion is practiced or taught the children will have none, and be the worse for the loss.

Adolescent children make mistakes in their sex lives primarily because they have not been rightly taught about sex in relation to their own lives. That, too, has been pushed over to the teacher, or the physician or the social worker, according to the difficulty the child is in. He rarely gets any instruction in sex until he gets into trouble. If he had been taught, when and where and as he should have been, at home, by his own father and mother, as he needed instruction, he might have escaped the mistake and its consequences. School could not take over that job, and will never be able to do so. It is essentially the duty of home.

School takes the child as he is, the product of his home. It does its best to modify, direct, inspire and discipline that child toward the highest standards he can achieve. But that child remains essentially the child of his parents, the creation of his home. Teachers do their best under trying conditions. Schools do their best under impossible burdens. Home must shake off its feeling of irresponsibility, take over its own duties and send its children to the schools in condition for teaching. No school in America ever trained and developed a criminal, either directly or indirectly. He is the product of his environment, his heredity and his training, and the greatest force ever brought to bear upon him was his home. Let's revive the home.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Need Quick Tricks to Double Slam

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear. Mr. Culbertson: The enclosed hand offers one more lesson on one of your favorite topics, which is "do not double slam bids unless you have the setting tricks ready to cash."

North, dealer.

NORTH
♠ J 5
♥ K 5 3 2
♦ A K Q 10 9 7
♣ 3

WEST
♠ Q 10 7
♥ Q J 9 8 7
♦ 6 4 3

EAST
♠ 8 6 4 2
♦ 5 2
♣ 9 8 7 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠ A K 9 3
♥ A 10 4
♦ J 8
♣ A Q J 10

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
7 no trump	Pass	Pass	Double

"Admittedly the bidding was on the hop-skip-and-jump order. South probably could have made a far better bid than an abrupt leap to six no trump, and if North chose to bid a grand slam he probably should have selected diamonds rather than no trump. But that is not the question. It was West's double that showed declarer the road to successful play.

"The opening lead was the heart queen. South won with the ace, led the diamond jack and ran dummy's diamond suit. Just before playing the last diamond the cards were like this:

NORTH
♠ J 5
♥ K 5 3
♦ A
♣ 3

WEST
♠ Q 10 7
♥ J 9
♦ None
♣ K 5

SOUTH
♠ A K 9
♥ 10
♦ None
♣ A Q J

"On the lead of the diamond ace South discarded the club jack, and West was squeezed. He let go the seven of spades and South then cashed the ace, king, and nine of spades. On the last round West again was squeezed. This time he threw the heart nine, which allowed dummy to cash two good heart tricks, the club ace, of course, accounting for the thirteenth trick.

"Without West's ill advised double, which virtually located all the missing honors, declarer might easily have taken the club finesse for his thirteenth trick. This, especially if West had had the gumption and foresight to hold his three spades and his heart stopper, and to blank his club king As it was, since he had marked himself with the club king, he could not afford to blank it.

"Yours truly,
"R.S.T. Woodhaven, N. Y."

I have written so much, and so often, on the subject of the all-revealing double of slam contracts, that any comment by me, over and above those made by the correspondent, would be superfluous.

If lilac bushes are to be used for a low hedge, they should be trimmed like privet and not allowed to bloom. Two cuttings a year will not be too many.

If a little ammonia is mixed with beeswax and turpentine used for polishing floors the wax will dissolve quickly.

A "different" frosting for white or yellow cake is made by adding ½ cup crushed pineapple to 1 cup crumbled macaroons and then adding ½ teaspoon lemon extract and ½ cup confectioner's sugar.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

Since boarding "The Empress of Russia" at Yokohama, my thoughts have gone back to the Japanese people, and to the war against China.

The people I met in Japan were polite, friendly and helpful. If we suppose that most people in the country are that way, how can we explain the war on China?

The first answer, I think, is that the people did not start the war. They were not asked whether they should fight, or not fight. The army and the navy went ahead with the attack, and that is all there was to it at first.

Since the war opened the newspapers have been telling the people day by day that their soldiers are heroes who are fighting for a just cause. Even if the newspapers wanted to say something else, they would not dare to do so. If the editors said anything very strong against the war, the editors would go to prison.

Even so, some persons in Japan have spoken against the war. Quite a number of college professors and other well known people have been arrested, and some have been sentenced to jail or prison.

I noticed one thing of special interest in my talks with dozens of Japanese. I asked quite a number about the war, but I cannot remember a single one who spoke of the subject first. If they thought it was a great and good war, why didn't they want to talk about it?

Of those I questioned, two or three spoke in favor of the war, but the others said little or nothing about it. Only one was bold. "Most of the people in Japan want peace," he replied.

The so-called "boycott" of Japanese goods has hurt the country to some extent. It has not been complete, but the nation's trade has suffered. This means less money with which to carry on the war.

Yet Japan is strong. The soldiers are well trained, and have proved themselves skillful in making war. They are brave in battle, and willing to die for their country.

At the time I write these words, it is hard to tell when the war against China will end. As long as Japan is able to buy oil from American, British and Dutch oil companies, it is likely that Japan's war power will last.

Friendships Can Be Most Valuable Assets in Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—All during my life I have had lots of friends. My life has never been a dull one despite the fact that I have been in poor circumstances. I never expected anything from my friends but friendship, but they gave me that and often helped me in other ways. I recently married a girl who belongs to a family that does not believe in friendship. Their argument is that you can't get anything from friends; that they all look out for themselves and your only friend is your pocketbook. They are cold to people and rarely does any one come to their house. My wife takes their point of view, doesn't want to go anywhere or see any one. Her family has instilled in her a feeling of suspicion that everything you say to people or they ask you is for the purpose of finding out your business and talking about it. I try to convince her that people don't have friends just to get what they can out of them, but to no avail. Am I wrong in objecting? F. X. G.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:

I agree with you that life without friends is cinders, ashes and dust, and that those who cut themselves off from all warm, intimate affections and companionship with their fellow creatures make as great a mistake as they would if in a rich and verdant land they chose to dwell alone on some barren and rocky peak.

You are right in thinking that friendship is not a graft. It is a gift. It is something sweet and fragrant and beautiful that enriches existence. It is bestowed upon us not for our worth, not for any price that we can pay for it, but because some heart is drawn to us, some soul sees within us something that finds a responsive echo in his own soul. Nothing has ever bettered the definition of friendship given by the little boy who said that a friend was a person who knew all about you and liked you still.

When friendship becomes a matter of barter and trade, when a man uses another man's friendship to borrow money from him or to ask favors of him, or a woman cultivates another woman just because she can open social gates to her, it is not friendship. It is a racket. Real friendship is the something intangible that binds people together, and it is composed of everything except the profit motive.

It is made up of congeniality, of liking to do the same things, of entertaining and amusing each other, of loyalty, of an affection that makes them share each other's joys and sorrows and of an intimacy that makes them able to confide in each other, sure that what they tell will go no further.

None of us can live to ourselves without being miserable. We must have somebody to talk to, with whom we do not have to be on our guard and watch our speech; somebody with whom we do not have always to be at topnotch; somebody who is interested in our new hat and car and what little Johnny said; somebody who will be as pleased as we are when Tom makes the football team and Mary becomes engaged; somebody who will come to us in our dark night of despair and let us weep out our hearts on their breasts; somebody who will be watching the hospital door when we are sick and who will weep for us if we die.

And we must have somebody to play with. We can't do that alone. There is no favor to a feast if eaten by ourselves, no fun in a party if we are the only one there. Nine-tenths of the pleasure that we ever have comes through our friends. So to deliberately cut friendship out of our lives is to declare voluntary bankruptcy in happiness.

No young married couple could make a greater mistake than to shut friendship out of their lives. They should call it in and give it a warm seat at their firesides, because friends will do more than any other one thing to keep them from getting tired of each other and to bring gayety and cheer into their homes. And although one does not have friends for what one can get out of them, they are among the most valuable assets we can possess because people will do things for us because they like us that they would not do for us because it was our due.

Add Perfume To Water to Scent Hair

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Dowager's Hump

L. S. writes: "I really am not old enough to have a pad of flesh between the shoulder blades. But there it is. A lotion that I know to be good has been used on this thickening, but it is supposed to be used daily and when I cannot recruit someone to do it for me I find it very difficult to pat and knead it into that area. What do you advise."

The reducing lotion type you talk about does have to be used every day for about fifteen minutes, kneaded in, if best possible results are to be obtained. And I grant that it is a very difficult area to reach and is tiring on the arms. Can't you get a friend or member of your family to help? And try these exercises. First, slowly drop the head forward and just as slowly back, front on the chest, and back between the shoulder blades, tensing the muscles. Repeat ten times. A similar exercise, but with more resistance. While slowly reaching back with the head, hold arms stretched forward toward knees, in sitting position, of course, hands clasped. Keep pulling arms forward from the shoulders while the head is reaching back. You should feel a definite tug-of-war resistance. Repeat six times. And do check on your posture. Make sure you are not holding your head forward while sitting, reading or sewing. Also are you sleeping without a pillow? If not, try it.

Perfume for the Hair

Annabelle writes: "My best friend doesn't have to tell me. About a week or so following the shampoo my hair smells heavy, rancid. If, for some reason, I have to go for an extra day or two without a shampoo, do you suggest perfuming the hair?"

AFTERNOON TEA

Dear Mrs. Post: When I have several friends in for tea, will you explain about service. I have no maid and sit back of the tea table and prepare the tea, and the plates and food are on the table in front of me. I can't very well get out from behind the table easily to pass these things to my guests and yet it does not seem very polite to ask them to come over to where I am sitting to get their tea and whatever they want to eat.

Answer: Even in great houses that have a complete staff of servants, the hostess is alone more often then not at the tea table. She always prepares the tea and hands the cup and saucer to whoever is within reach of her. One sitting a a little too far away would go to the table and get it, at the same time helping herself (or himself) from the dishes on the table. As a matter of fact, when three or four people are gathered around the tea table, they draw up chairs and sit close enough to be within handing reach. At a very large tea, that is, very large for the hostess to be pouring, a servant would probably remain in the room or else an intimate friend or member of the family would perhaps carry cups and saucers or at least pass plates of bread or cakes. It is, however, never thought impolite to expect guests at a tea party to come up to the tea table and help themselves.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a "silver tea" in order only when given by a club or organization which is taking this means of raising money for some charity? Would it be in questionable taste, in other words, for a private hostess to give a silver tea? The purpose is also for charity, but for her own charities and not those in which her friends are especially interested.

Answer: It would be in very questionable taste. No hostess should think of doing such a thing. She could of course give a "silver tea" for the benefit of the hospital or her neighborhood guild or anything in which all the people are interested.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: When giving a birthday party, that is, a surprise party, for my husband, do you think I should have a few friends in to play bridge or give a come-and-go type of party so that I can include more of his friends Our apartment is very small and I could have only two or at the most three tables of bridge. The reason I mention bridge at all for this occasion is that bridge is my husband's one greatest interest.

Answer: Since bridge is your husband's greatest interest, it is obvious that this is the type of party to give for him. After all the object of the party is to give pleasure to him.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

Moss in the lawn does not mean that the soil is sour, in spite of a wide-spread belief to that effect. It is much more likely to mean that the soil needs feeding. It is the same with chickweed and sorrel. If they are present, they may be understood to indicate that the grass needs fertilizing. As a matter of fact moss and weeds of the kinds mentioned are not likely to give much trouble if the lawn is given the regular applications of plant food which it needs. The first application should be made as soon as the grass begins to grow in the spring, using about four pounds to 100 square feet. It is well to check on the matter of drainage, too. If the water table stands too high, it may account for the presence of moss. A few tile drains will cost little.

Normal Schools Can Grant but 2 Degrees

Madison—(AP)— Attorney General Orland S. Loomis advised President C. M. Yoder of the State Teachers college at Whitewater Friday that normal schools cannot grant professional degrees other than those of bachelor of education and bachelor of science.

The legislature at the 1937 session authorized normal schools to grant bachelor of science degrees. Prior to the amendment the schools could grant only bachelor of education degrees.

"The words of the statute are clear and express and cannot be extended by interpretation," Loomis said.

The attorney general advised District Attorney Theodore Waller, of Pierce county, that per diem expenses of an appeal board created to hear a dispute over detachment of territory from a school district should be paid by the town in which the detached area lies, and that administrative expense of the board should be paid by the county and town.

Navy Picture Is On Now at Elite

Robert Young, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore in Cast

Acclaimed by naval officers the most authentic story ever written about the historic United States Naval Aademy, "Navy Blue and Gold" is the feature attraction at the Elite Theatre.

The novel, steeped in colorful traditions of the institution, was written by George Bruce who also adapted it to the screen.

The picture is headed by a strong cast including Robert Young, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Florence Rice, Billie Burke, Paul Kelly and Barnett Parker.

It portrays the poignant devotion of cadets pledged to their country's service, the heartaches of stern, character-building discipline, the thrilling sportsmanship of the Navy's titanic football games, and the love of two players for the sister of their quarterback pal.

"Navy Blue and Gold" teams Young, fresh from his triumphs in "I Met Him in Paris" and "The Bride Wore Red," Stewart who scored in "Seventh Heaven," and Tom Brown as buddies coming from different walks of life to rise to fame on the Navy gridiron.

Miss Rice portrays the sister of Tom Brown, and Parker has the role of a comic English butler who aids his young master's football career.

Powell and Annabella In Show at Appleton

Debonair William Powell . . . . lovely Annabella! He's the perfect butler and she's the perfect lady. They're perfectly sensational, co-starred together in "The Baroness and The Butler," Darryl F. Zanuck's newest 20th Century-Fox hit production which will start today at the Appleton Theatre for a 4-day showing.

Annabella, in her first American-made picture, believes butlers are born to obey . . . but debonair Bill obeys such un-butler-like impulses! She's so proud; he's so proper . . . and you'll be so surprised!

This film has caught the tone and flavor of an old regime—years of tradition and generations of escutcheon worship—suddenly confronted with a blue bloods' dilemma in which the self-effacing butler emerges from his cocoon to assume social equality with his noble employers.

Powell, at his suave best, tries to save the Count's family from the blow of learning that he has been elected to Parliament on the Socialist-Progressive ticket. He incurs the wrath of every one but his Count—whose chief worry is that he will lose a good butler. The solving of this situation and the ensuing battle of wits with "Baroness" Annabella and a brilliant cast, gives movie fans a treat, long to be remembered. Powell was never better. Annabella reveals the most glamorously exciting personality ever to grace the screen.

The supporting cast of "The Baroness and The Butler" features Helen Westley, Henry Stephenson, Joseph Schildkraut, J. Edward Bromberg, Nigel Bruce and Lynn Bari.

As the second feature on this program we are showing Gene Autry in his newest musical western, "Springtime in The Rockies" which is just as splendid and unforgettable as the song on which it is based. Smiley Burnette deserves credit for his good performance in the comedy role of Frog Millhouse—the same character he plays in every Autry western. Other members of the cast are Polly Rowles, Ruth Bacon, June Hunt, Ula Lane, and Tom London. The picture is said to be one of Autry's best to date, so this cowboy's fans have a treat in store for them.

British Boy Actor in Cast of Racing Picture

Ronald Sinclair, Hollywood's new discovery in British boy actors, is teamed with Judy Garland and Sophie Tucker, of "Broadway Melody" fame, Mickey Rooney, and other notable players in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," new attraction coming to the Rialto Theatre Kaukauna, Thursday Friday for a 2 day showing.

Another hit on the Rialto screen soon deals with Katharine Brush, whose best-selling novel, "Young Man of Manhattan," was made into a motion picture hit, has scored again with the adoptation to the screen of her original story, "Mannequin," co-starring for the first time Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy. The picture opens soon at the Rialto Kaukauna Theatre.

Arguments Deferred in Reuping Leather Suit

Madison—(AP)—The state supreme court Friday deferred arguments until the week of April 14 in the suit of the Fred Reuping Leather company of Fond du Lac to set aside an order of the state labor relations board holding the company guilty of unfair labor practices. Counsel for the company and the board agreed on the postponement to allow more time for preparation of their arguments.

'SNOW WHITE' TO OPEN NEXT FRIDAY

The most eagerly anticipated feature in motion picture history, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," comes to the Rio theatre starting Friday. It is Walt Disney's first full length feature production and filmed in the new multiplane technicolor.

In metropolitan cities where the picture is now playing, it is exceeding attendance records made years ago by "The Birth of a Nation." It will be presented at the Rio theater with continuous performances and special early shows to accommodate the crowds.

BOOK REVIEW

'Heroes of Alcazar' is Gripping Story of 72-Day Siege in Spain

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"HEROES OF THE ALCAZAR" by R. TIMMERMANS.

For sheer, unmitigated courage in the face of almost hopeless odds, probably nothing can equal the story of the siege of the Alcazar ("Heroes of the Alcazar" by R. Timmermans,) as related to him by one who endured those 72 days of starvation, wounds, suffering and imminent death, from July to September, 1936. Custer's Last Stand at the Little Bighorn in 1876 perhaps approximates it closer than any other single engagement in modern history.

There is a most interesting and informative introduction to this Spanish saga by F. Yeats-Brown, author of "The Bengal Lancer." In his introduction, Major Yeats-Brown states parenthetically that probably no one will ever know the whole truth about the siege. The survivors of the garrison are scattered and shun publicity, while the attackers (the Red Militia) have no cause to perpetuate the memory of their brutality. He gives the reader an excellent topographical description of the Alcazar, and the land adjacent to it, which serves to make the tale more vivid and realistic.

The average newspaper reader who each day during the past 18 months has studied the columns describing the progress of the civil war in Spain has undoubtedly found himself somewhat confused as to who actually are the loyalists, and who the so-called rebels; which side was communist and which side leaned towards fascism. This thrilling contemporary record clears up to a large extent that general vagueness, and makes today's newspaper accounts of the continued fighting more intelligible. While written by a German correspondent whose sympathies might be expected to lean toward the Nazi-Fascist cause, if the author has faithfully recounted events as they were related to him by an actual participant, one's sympathies can not fail to be with the rebel General Franco and his cause: the freeing of Spain from outside interference and exploitation by nations interested only in their own national aggrandizement.

It is evident from his descriptions of the charm of its countryside, the glories of its architecture, and its natural scenic beauties, that he is familiar with the Spain of today as well as with the history of its past grandeur.

Famous Fortress

The Alcazar of Toledo is one of the most famous fortresses in all Europe and has through the centuries, been repeatedly burned, battered, besieged and sacked. It stands on a rocky height dominating the city. The tremendous thickness of its walls make it well nigh impregnable except against the largest of modern artillery. Though its four corner towers were demolished, and huge rents torn in its walls, the piles of rubble caused by enemy artillery, served as barricades against its attackers. Even after the Reds had actually gained entrance to the fortress, torturous underground passages served as a last retreat to the beleagured defenders, while they waited bravely for the hoped-for relief by General Franco who was battling his way to their assistance. Though this story of the indomitable courage of these seventeen hundred defenders (including five hundred women and children) reads like the most stirring fiction, military reports of the surviving officers testify to its authenticity. Before the reds exploded their first subterranean mine beneath the Alcazar, they sent word they would permit women and children to surrender and seek shelter in the city. The answer they received from these ill, starving and terrified women was to the effect that when all their men were killed they would man the guns themselves until the last woman and child had died.

The descriptions of emergency operations performed on their wounded in a dank, underground chamber, lighted only by flickering, mule-fat candles, the illness and death of little children, the daily forays into the city in search of much needed food, the fortitude and heroism of every man and woman in that shell-torn fortress are told with a simplicity and stark realism which will linger long in the memory of anyone reading the book. Colonel Moscardo, commander of the garrison, received word from a red officer, that they had captured his young son in the city and would release him unharmed if the colonel would surrender the Alcazar. The Colonel replied that his son would not accept such a sacrifice of his father's honor and commended his boy's soul to God. The boy was summarily shot. Such incidents were not unusual during those 72 days. And when relief came at last to the survivors, they were almost too exhausted to realize their deliverance.

'THE AWFUL TRUTH' COMING TO ELITE

Irene Dunne, who unceremoniously cut loose from a career of stately roles to indulge cinematically in wild whimsies and hysterical insanities in "Theodora Goes Wild," will again be seen in an all-comedy role in Columbia's "The Awful Truth," which opens at the Elite Theatre for 3 days starting next Wednesday. Cary Grant this time serves as Miss Dunne's screen cohort with such favorites in support as Ralph Bellamy, Cecil Cunningham, Alexander D'Arcy, Robert Allen, Joyce Compton and Esther Dale.

PLAY IN 'THRILL OF A LIFETIME'

The Yacht Club Boys in the popular picture, "Thrill of a Lifetime" at the Rialto Theatre, Kaukauna, next Tues. and Wed. The associate feature stars Will Rodgers, in "Handy Andy" with Robert Taylor.

'Love and Hisses' Coming to Rialto

Picture Starring Simone Simon Will Open at Kaukauna Sunday

At least part of the news about "Love and Hisses" ought to be on Page One as an extra. Simone Simon sings! And how the glorious glamor girl sings!

Twentieth Century - Fox's new idea in musical show hits, which opens Sunday at the Kaukauna Rialto theater, is, to borrow a phrase from one of its stars, a wowsah! And with seven hot-and-hissing Gordon and Revel song hits.

Under the order of new business it brings up that old toss-around between the Rajah of Rib, Walter Winchell, and his "Old Mousetrap" . . . Ben Bernie. This T.N.T.-for-two picture has a new kind of "ummph" (how this talk creeps into the language) in the co-starring efforts of a torchy new Simone Simon touching off the pf f fuse.

Infantry Association Will Meet at Oshkosh

The Second Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry association, which includes Spanish-American war veterans from Appleton, will meet at Oshkosh April 2 in its first regular session. The group was formed last July.

Companies from Oshkosh, Marshfield, Appleton, Sheboygan, Ripon, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Marinette, Beaver Dam, Ashland, and Oconto were in the Second Wisconsin Infantry, commanded by Colonel Charles Boren of Sheboygan.

August W. Reise, Milwaukee, is president of the group.

APPLETON THEATER TO SHOW 'GOLGOTHA'

The most important motion picture will be shown at the APPLETON THEATRE starting Wednesday for 3 big days. It is "GOLGOTHA." It shows the final days on earth of Jesus of Nazareth. It is a superb spectacle. It stirs the emotions. It is faithful to the Bible. It is superbly acted, by a cast of thousands. No picture has ever portrayed the saviour as well as "Golgotha" churchmen have praised it, as well as critics. Also on the same program we are showing the Jones family in "Love on a Budget."

'Romance in the Dark' Will be Shown at Rio

A frolicsome comedy, set against a peppery continental background in the tradition of "Champagne Waltz" and "I Met Him in Paris," comes to the screen of the Rio Theatre Wednesday and Thursday in "Romance in the Dark." With Gladys Swarthout, John Boles and John Barrymore in the leading roles, it tells a light-hearted story of a housemaid who masquerades as a Persian princess to win musical fame and the man she loves.

Miss Swarthout, a former Metropolitan Opera star and radio artist, has been called one of the two women in Hollywood who did more than any one else to popularize good music in motion pictures. She is completely at home in her present picture, which is reminiscent of her "Champagne Waltz."

The musical touch is supplied to "Romance in the Dark" by the three world-famous operas, "Carmen," "The Barber of Seville" and "Song of India," selections from which are sung by Miss Swarthout and Boles. In addition to this, three new popular numbers have been written especially for this picture. They are "Blue Dawn," "Tonight We Love" and "Bewitched by the Night."

"The 'Crime' of Dr. Hallet" is the added feature on the same program, which is a powerful and poignant picture.

The story of this picture concerns a battle of elemental love and hate, with men and women aroused to primal emotion at fever heat, against a background of heroic martyrdom to science. Hallet goes to Samatra to find a fever cure, and falls in love with his woman assistant, Dr. Reynolds. When Dr. Saunders, another assistant, dies through an imperfect experiment, Hallet takes his name to carry on his work to fulfillment. Then Saunders' wife, Claire, arrives and threatens exposure.

Ralph Bellamy is outstanding as Dr. Hallet. William Gargan, as his ironical assistant, revels in one of the picture's best roles. Josephine Hutchinson, as Hallet's sweetheart, Dr. Reynolds, gives a touching portrayal, while Barbara Read, as Claire, and John King, as the idealistic Dr. Saunders, round out a most convincing cast.

Stone Heads Cast of Show Coming to Elite

Dramatic interludes in the life of a typical American family are highlighted in "You're Only Young Once," which comes to the Elite theater on Monday and Tuesday, Bargin days.

The new comedy offers Hollywood's conception of an ideal family group. Lewis Stone is the father, understanding and tolerant. Cecilia Parker is the daughter, just out of college and engaged to a mining engineer. Mickey Rooney is the son, playing his first grown-up role. Others in the cast are Fay Holden as the mother, Frank Craven, Ann Rutherford, Eleanor Lynn, Ted Pearson, Sara Haden, Charles Judels and Selmer Jackson.

The story concerns the first vacation for the Hardy family in eleven years. Going to Catalina Island, they encounter adventures strange to their small-town experience. Judge Hardy, played by Stone, is forced to postpone his expressed ambition to catch a swordfish to straighten out internal entanglements. When the vacation is suddenly interrupted by trouble at home it is Judge Hardy who again proves his right to be head of the family, by saving the family funds.

A musical program will be presented at his lecture in Peabody hall and a reception will follow. The event will be open to the public.

'Golgotha' Based On Life of Jesus

Film to be Shown at Appleton Depict's Christ's Last Days on Earth

It was Sunday in Jerusalem. . . . a Sunday of long ago. . . . a day destined to be forever memorable. Thousands of pilgrims had come to the ancient capital of Israel, now an outpost of the Roman Empire, for the ceremonies of the Passover. Among them was Herod, Tetrach of Galilee, and also another Galilean, a wandering prophet, lowliest of the lowly, yet greater than all Herods and all Caesars.

Singing hosanans and hailing Him as their King, the multitudes went forth from the city to welcome Jesus of Nazareth on this, the first of all Palm Sundays. Yet a few days later, He died ignominiously on the cross.

The tragic but glorious story of Christ's last days on Eearth, His Crucifixion and Resurrection, subject of countless theatrical performances and pageants for centuries, is brought to the screen in "Golgotha," the first great spectacle of its kind since sound was added to films. It will be shown at Appleton Theatre starting Wednesday for 3-days.

"Golgotha" is a straightforward portrayal of the immortal story from the Gospels of the New Testament, without the introduction of extraneous elements. Beginning with Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem, it shows the driving of the money changers from the Temple, the persecution of Jesus, the Last Supper, the agony in Gethsemane, the trial and Crucifixion, and the final appearance before the disciples after the Resurrection.

Aside from the values which the story of Jesus of Nazareth must always have, GOLGOTHA is notable as the first realization in motion picture form of the power and drama which lie so richly at hand in the Biblical narratives. In this great picture the final portions of the New Testament gospels merge into a story which, in addition to the appeal it will always have for those of all creeds, possesses the compelling power of great tragedy. GOLOTHA tells a mighty story in a mighty way.

'Mad About Music' Is Showing at Rio

Deanna Durbin Combines Acting and Singing in New Picture

Deanna Durbin's latest picture is always an event.

"Three Smart Girls" was a surprise, bringing to the screen a fresh, sparkling and lovable little star. "100 Men and a Girl" was a revelation of the tremendous singing abilities of this amazing youngster, and "Mad About Music," now playing at the Rio Theater, is an astounding display of both acting and singing.

The producers of "Mad About Music" have boldly thrown Deanna into a story that demands the utmost in acting talent. And 15-year-old Deanna handles the difficult assignment with ease and assurance.

As entertainment, "Mad About Music" excels either of her previous pictures, although it departs entirely in theme and structure from "Three Smart Girls" or "100 Men and a Girl." Her new production is almost entirely comedy-drama, but with a story that lends itself to several highly emotional passages, heart-gripping in their intensity, bringing tears in their wake much as did the finale of "100 Men and a Girl." The tears are immediately followed by comedy sequences, forcing smiles. It is this procession of smiles and tears which makes "Mad About Music" a great picture.

Deanna sings four songs in the production, three of them, "I Love to Whistle," "Serenade to the Stars" and Chapel Bells" by Harold Adamson and Jimmie McHugh. The fourth is "Ave Marie," by Gounod.

Co-starred with Miss Durbin is Herbert Marshall, while the supporting cast includes Gail Patrick, Arthur Treacher, Franklin Pangborn Elizabeth Risdon, Jackie Moran, Bert Roach, Helen Parrish, and Cappy Barra's Harmonica ensemble.

A new H. C. (sapper) McNeile mystery story of Scotland Yard, "Bulldog Drummond's Peril," is the added feature on the current program. The case includes John Barrymore, John Howard, and Louise Campbell.

Council Defers Action on Pool, Beach Proposal

Martens Withdraws Motion To Refer Question To Referendum

Neenah — The proposed $75,000 swimming pool and bathing beach project will not be put on a referendum in the spring elections, it was decided at a meeting of the city council last night at the city hall, and official action will be deferred at least until after the elections.

Alderman Robert Martens withdrew a motion to put the question on the ballot, and another motion was passed to defer the proposal until later.

When Alderman Martens entered his motion, Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs said: "I am not adverse to a referendum, and I know there is opposition to the proposal and I also know that there are citizens who think there are things we need more than a bathing beach, but I don't see how this suggested referendum could be intelligently put to the public and I can't see that it would disclose anything."

Martens

The mayor added that a "yes or no" referendum wouldn't be intelligent.

The mayor urged that the matter be deferred, impressing upon the aldermen that there was no great haste and that they had all summer to decide. "Even if we did decide favorably on the question tonight, it would be impossible to have the project ready for use this summer," he said.

The mayor suggested that the councilmen give the matter more thought and considerable more investigation. He suggested visiting cities where similar pools have been erected.

The offer of the two prominent Neenah philanthropists who offered to contribute $50,000 and a valuable piece of lake front property will hold until fall, the mayor pointed out, and he added that these men don't wish the council to be too hasty in the matter.

Kalfahs

The council adopted a resolution for the installation of sanitary sewers and laterals on Congress place from Congress to Cedar streets. The property owners will be assessed 51 per lineal foot plus the cost of laterals.

Congress place, an area in the First ward intended for a restricted residential district, was adopted last fall by the city council. The plat is bounded by Doty avenue, Fairview avenue, Cedar street and Congress street. Principal owners are S. F. Shattuck, Max Schalk and Frank Durham.

A petition signed by 23 property owners on Grove street protesting installation of curb and gutter on the street was referred to the committee on public improvements. The petition stated that installation would be too expensive, pointing out that the grade of the street would have to be lowered. In order to lower the grade, stone would have to be removed, dirt taken away and the stone replaced.

When Alderman William Schmidt told the council that there are leaks in the circuit of the ornamental lighting system which involve considerable waste of money, the council voted to give the committee on public improvements power to authorize the necessary repairs without council action. Schmidt said that a new cable will have to be installed.

Schmidt

Alderman Emil C. Harder, chairman of the finance committee, reported that during the month the city incurred 95 bills amounting to $219,487.02, the largest of which were, United States treasurer, $140,002.88; county tax settlement, $71,680.62, and deferred water main interest, $3,203.17.

Mayor, Council Revamp Election Board Personnel

New Appointments, Based On Presidential Vote, Confirmed

Neenah—The city council at a meeting alst night at the city hall confirmed Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs' nominations of officers to serve on election boards for the next two years.

The election boards were revamped in accordance with a decision rendered by the supreme court that appointments must be based on the presidential vote instead of the vote for governor in the last election.

New appointments eliminate Progressives from membership on the boards, leaving all jobs to the Democrats and Republicans with the former predominating because of the large vote for President Roosevelt two years ago.

The Appointments

The list of appointments is as follows: First precinct, First ward, inspectors, Joseph L. Rausch, Charles J. Nieslson and Albert Rhodes; clerks, John D. Schneller and J. H. Owens.

Second precinct, Second ward—inspectors, Henry Torsrud, William Woeckner and Frank W. Kellogg; clerks, C. E. Arnemann and Edward J. Wright.

Mayor Kalfahs said that anyone who has been appointed and who doesn't wish to serve may notify the city clerk and someone else will be substituted.

'H. M. S. Pinafore' Will be Given by Menasha Students

Lift Parking Bans to Accommodate Bowlers

Neenah—Neenah and Menasha today lifted their time-limit parking zones bans for the convenience of out-of-town motorists attending the thirty-sixth annual state bowling tournament which opened in the Twin Cities last night.

Seven hundred bowlers, many of which are from other state cities, will bowl here over the weekend, and each out-of-town driver will be given a guest card to be displayed on his car. The card entitles the bowlers, as guests of the Twin Cities, to park as long as they please in parking zones where there is a time limit. They are requested, however, not to park in safety zones or near fire hydrants.

The special parking privileges will be in effect until the tournament ends in May.

Menasha —Gilbert and Sullivan's famous comic opera, "His Majesty's Ship Pinafore," will be given by the vocal music department in the Menasha High school auditorium April 20. A chorus of over 100 high school students will support a cast of nine principals in a rendition of this rollicking farce comedy.

The character of Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., will be portrayed by Lamar Foth, whose interpretation of that part promises to be an outstanding feature. Norman Michie, as Captain Corcoran, commander of the good ship "Pinafore," also is expected to be outstanding and will give to his part the benefit of a fine voice well handled.

Ralph Rackstraw will be sung by Albert Toven who is fast improving after an absence of six weeks because of illness Dick Deadeye, a hilarious, nonsensical common sailor, will be readily identified as Gerald Jensen, although Mr. LeFevre, director, has outlandish plans for camouflaging and obliterating the singer's natural appearance.

Among the feminine characters Gladys Fisher as Josephine and Peggy Gear as "Little Buttercup" will help to generate a romantic air to the comic opera as will Katherine Campbell who appears as Cousin Hebe. Incidental singing and speaking parts will be taken by Bonnie Mae Haugh as the diminutive midshipman and Leonell Gauthier as the boatswain.

A Hebe chorus of 30 girls will be made up of the "admiring crowd" of female relatives who attend Sir Joseph wherever he goes. The a cappella choir will bear the brunt of the chorus work of 65 mixed voices.

Conceived in Desperation, Milk Pool Now One of Most Important Groups in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Seven years ago a group of farmers in Outagamie and neighboring counties, after watching the prices of their dairy products drop to the lowest level in 30 years and sinking, along with the rest of the American nation, into the deepest economic depression in history, decided on a program of self-help which ultimately led to the historic middlewestern farm strikes.

After struggling futilely against economic forces which seemed to be too big for them, they organized in a cooperative attempt toward economic betterment. Their organization was called the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool.

This week one of the original movers in that organization, and now its president, Harry Jack of Hortonville, Outagamie county, proudly tells the story of the pool in its monthly organ, the Wisconsin Dairymen's News

Contrasts Group

Jack, whose own position has been considerably advanced through his activities during the last seven years in the Pool, contrasts the organization today with the hopeful, though dark, days of 1931.

The Pool, according to Jack, "was conceived in desperation—born into fearful days of farm foreclosures, evictions, strife and turmoil. But—with all the surface indications of recklessness, radicalism, of spilling milk and obstructing law and order, it comprised, in the vast majority, a body of men with level heads, constructive minds, and determined intentions."

Today the determination of those men, Jack explains, has produced an organization which disposes of the products of some 60 dairy plants, at a cost of one fourth of a cent per pound of butterfat, amounting to about $4,000,000 annually.

Early achievements of the organization, as listed by Jack, including the appointment of a committee by Governor Albert G. Schmedeman in 1933, as the result of the celebrated milk strike, which "was directly responsible for the inauguration of the surplus commodity corporation, which through its purchases of every type of agricultural product has time and again kept prices from dropping low. This committee too was responsible for the inauguration of the Federal Farm Credit administration of debt adjustment bodies throughout the country—a proposal which was submitted directly to the present secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau."

Field Service

In 1934 the Pool began its program of selling dairy products of members. "The first attempt to pool factory products," Jack continues, "were made in cooperation with the Otto Brass Cheese factory and the Black Creek cooperative dairy, (now the Outagamie Producers-Consumers Cooperative), both in Outagamie county. The cheese from these plants was warehoused at the Cheese Producers federation warehouse in Neenah. Later, 21 factories in Marinette and Oconto counties joined in pooling their products and warehouse operators had to be transferred to Green Bay into larger accomodations."

"Today the products of some 60 factories are pooled and sold through the central offices of the pool in still larger warehouse quarters at Green Bay, and the volume of business has just about reached the annual four million dollar mark."

"The volume was built without the subscription of a single share of stock and at a cost of but ¼ cent per pound butterfat delivered by members who have received in return premiums on their products sold far in excess of the cost.

Such activities, however, according to Jack, are only a small part of the Pool's program.

"We early inaugurated field service to improve the quality of milk deliveries to the plants and to maintain an adequate steady flow of milk.

"We have given engineering service and expert processing service, which in the case of American cheese alone, has improved the uniformity and quality of such cheese from an average of 60 per cent of state brand to over 90 per cent."

Thus, seven years after its desperate birth, the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool takes its place as one of the most important economic organizations in Wisconsin. After making history in the sensational milk strikes which symbolized a general Middlewestern agrarian unrest, the Pool today in its annual volume ranks as a big business

That its influence is widespread is also apparent. Jack, its president, was recently named to the chairmanship of the state department of agriculture and markets, which Wisconsin farmers have been taught to consider an arm of the capitol which is peculiarly their own, a weapon with which to solve their common problems.

NYA and Arts Group Will Have Access to Old CCC Buildings

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—None of the CCC camp buildings in Peninsula State park will be torn down, but are still reserved for the use of the Peninsula Arts association and the NYA, Congressman George J. Schneider announces.

Replacement of plumbing, which has been salvaged by the war department in accordance with its right to all movable equipment, will be undertaken jointly by the state conservation commission and the NYA, in the seven buildings which the NYA expects to use.

The other 11 buildings have been turned over to the state conservation commission, whose responsibility it will be to recondition them, according to Congressman Schneider.

"In abandoning this property, the war department not only has first choice but has control of all movable equipment and may salvage whatever it regards as useful," Schneider states.

In a letter to Schneider, John Lashei, head of the NYA for Wisconsin, indicates that plans for the use of the seven buildings by the NYA will be worked out in cooperation with C. L. Harrington, superintendent of forests and parks of the state conservation commission.

Service Commission Gets Dispute Between Little Chute, Kaukauna

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — A legal dispute between the Kaukauna municipal electric utility and the village of Little Chute today had prompted an investigation by the state public service commission.

According to a complaint filed by Joseph Witmer, Appleton, Little Chute village attorney, the Kaukauna utility has refused to extend its service to the Little Chute sewage pump house unless the village secures an easement for the construction of the new lines. The village of Little Chute buys its electric power from the Kaukauna utility.

The village contends that the utility is obligated to obtain private right of way for the new lines as it does in ordinary construction. The village also maintains that a WPA project is being held up because of the utility's refusal to extend power service. The project will connect the village sewage system with the Outagamie county sanatorium, and will also extend sewers to thinly settled parts of the village not now served.

Soprano Popular In Europe

ROSE Bampton, Metropolitan mezzo-soprano, who will appear on the Community Artists series Thursday night at Memorial chapel, scored major triumphs in London and on the continent in the short space of two years.

In 1935 she was appointed official delegate of the English-Speaking union and sent to London for the silver jubilee of the late King George V. She enjoyed high favor among English royalty in this her first London appearance

Of her performance in Holland, a music critic remarked: "Due to experience we are always inclined to be somewhat reluctant in regard to advertisements coming from America. This time we can state with great pleasure that we really saw and heard a 'star' in the realm of song. Miss Bampton is really a singer of greatest importance."

These concerts served as a prelude to the brilliant performances she gave as a full-fledged dramatic soprano as Leonora in "Il Trovatore" at Dresden, Munich, and Prague.

Celebration of St. Patrick's Day Highlights Week's Social Activities

"The Wearing of the Green" was No. 1 on the hit parade for Appleton people this week as numerous celebrations and parties were held in honor of St. Patrick's day. Right in the middle of this layout of pictures are a pair of youngsters with Irish faces and Irish names holding an Irish blackthorn cane which came directly from the emerald isle, having belonged to the lad's great grandfather. Jerry Patrick Driscoll, left, gives the finishing touch to his costume with a clay pipe and green "hard" hat, while Colleen Garvey, right, lets her Irish smile and perky shamrock, to say nothing of her name, speak for her ancestry. Jerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Driscoll, 411 W. Sixth street, and Colleen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Garvey, 403 W. Sixth street.

BY ALLAN KERR

We're still laughing at the way S. C. Taub, who assisted Vice President Metz and Secretary Hayes in conducting the Oshkosh session of the N.E.W. Kennel club, almost hung the April meeting on the big Fond du Lac delegation in attendance. The crowd that packed the hall was very much in favor of going to the club's southern-most city for the next gathering. Only after Vice President Elmer Homuth and Director Herb Rosenthal stated they would have to consult their attorney before speaking for the Fondy group, was the bid from the Neenah crowd accepted.

* * *

Contrast the unsuccessful attempt by Green Bay firemen to rescue a small dog from the icy waters of Fox river with the thrilling escape by another dog from a similar fate, with the assistance of two small boys. Perhaps the youngsters were ignorant of the dangers involved, but we would rather attribute the deed to a difference in motivating forces between the two rescue parties.

* * *

Every time we buy a dog license, the hair seems to stand up on our back and a lusty growl forms in our throat. We hesitate to give vent to it because one growl is not likely to be heard. A chorus of them, however, might reach the ears of those who make the laws, and it is our opinion that good dog legislation has been sadly neglected in Wisconsin.

Have you ever wondered what happens to your dog tax dollars? Check up some day and learn for yourself just how they are used. You may be greatly suprised to discover what little good is derived from the money, as far as the dog and his owner are concerned. If enough readers are interested, this column will be pleased to give a brief summary of the statutes pertaining to dogs. Do you want it?

It is reported that some cities in northeastern Wisconsin are badly in need of a better means of handling the stray dog problem. Many are without dog pounds, and we have heard that dogs are picked up by the police, dumped into a small box, a dozen at a time and gassed, without being held for the five days required by state law, and without proper posting of notices. How are these things handled in you town? If your dog accidentdentally breaks away, will it be the victim of such improper practice? Better investigate.

* * *

Distemper seems to strike most vigorously in the spring, and dog owners will do well to be on the alert for the first signs of trouble. Loss of appetite, dry cough, mattery eyes and discharge from the nose are some of the symptoms. It is not unusual for a dog to go off its feed for a couple of meals, but if the fast goes for more than 24 hours, don't hesitate to force feed with beef broth or other liquid foods. The dog can't fight without nourishment. Isolate and keep warm and dry. Don't exercise. Most cases are taken to the veterinarian after it is too late to do any good.

Neenah, Menasha Teams Roll As State Pin Tourney Opens

1,370 Five-Man Squads Entered, Secretary Jonen Reports

SETS NEW RECORD

Doubles and Singles Start Today on Hendy Alleys

BY RANDY HAASE

NEENAH—The thirty-sixth annual state bowling tournament, the largest ever held, opened in the Twin Cities Friday night when 20 booster teams from Neenah and Menasha rolled in two shifts. Mayor Walter E. Held of Menasha and Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs rolled the first balls to open the tourney officially. Kalfahs collected a strike while Held knocked over eight pins.

The invasion of 140 teams from 16 cities for the weekend bowling started today. The singles and doubles events opened at the Hendy alleys, Menasha, this afternoon while the five man events continued at the Muench alleys. Twelve shifts were scheduled for today and tomorrow.

Set New Records

In the opening ceremonies Clarence Jonen, Milwaukee, state secretary, pointed out that this tourney broke all records. A total of 1,370 teams, more than 900 teams from outside the Twin Cities and representatives from 101 cities, all broke a state record.

A. A. Hennig, Neenah, local tourney manager, expressed his appreciation of the help given him locally, particularly by Dud Verwey, Menasha, and the alley proprietors, Joe Muench and C. A. Hendy. Both Mayor Held and Mayor Kalfahs commented on the way the two cities got together to put the tourney over.

George Thompson, past president of the association, recalled that the Twin Cities were hosts to the state tournament 20 years ago when a total of 268 teams were entered.

As for the bowling, the 100 men participating Friday night at least had a good time. Occasional doubles were recorded but at least four of the first 10 balls thrown took to the gutter. City of Neenah teams took both high and low honors in the first shift.

The No. 1 team scored a 2,120 total to defeat the Menasha No. 1 team by three pins. Harry Zemlock, Neenah city clerk, rolled the high series of the night, a 535 mark, while City Treasurer W. Loehning of Neenah collected a 209 game.

The No. 2 Neenah team had a 1,343 total, an average of considerably less than 100 pins a game per man. E. Harder, Neenah, got off to a shaky start with a 47 game. He improved steadily and ended with a 191 total, but still had the low marks of the shift.

Mike Grode Gets 504

E. Zeinnger, rolling for the No. 2 Menasha team, hit a 200 game and a 507 series to top the Menasha keglers. Mike Grode, Menasha Third ward alderman, rolled consistently for a 504 series for the No. 1 team.

A. Scholl, rolling for the Sawyer Construction company, in the second shift, had a 246 score for the high game of the evening. Other high games in the second shift were a 211 by L. Pelton and a 204 by H. Thornton.

The Kiwanis No. 2 team of Neenah rolled the high series of the evening, 2,333, to take first money in the second shift. Other second shift scores showed the No. 4 city of Neenah team with a 2,164 total on games of 718, 674 and 772.

Rotary No. 1 of Neenah finished third with a 2,097 total on games of 632, 695 and 770. Sawyer Construction company hit counts of 681, 724 and 676 for 2,081. The No. 1 Kiwanis team of Neenah rolled games of 703, 659 and 679 for 2,041.

Cleaners Get 1,953

Twin City Cleaners scored games of 671, 634 and 648 for a 1,953 total. The No. 5 team, City of Neenah, had a 1,760 total on games of 553, 574 and 633 while the No. 3 Lions club team of Neenah just finished in the money with a 1,733 mark on games of 580, 549 and 604.

Rotary No. 2 of Neenah collected counts of 521, 567 and 594 for a 1,682 total while the No. 2 Lions club team of Neenah was last in the shift with a 1,630 score on games of 535, 607 and 538.

The Neenah No. 1 team had games of 734, 653 and 733 for a 2,120 series and the high mark in the first shift. The second place Menasha just finished in the money games of 689, 649 and 779. The Menasha police department took third with a 2,102 total on games of 636, 710 and 756.

Chaff 'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

GOT out to Alexander gymnasium of Lawrence college the other afternoon for the first time in almost a blue moon. When we last were there the Vikes were in the middle of preparations for their last cage games; now they've got a good start on the indoor track season.

As a matter of fact the thinly clads were in the midst of an inter-squad indoor meet and there was all kinds of enthusiasm as the boys decked themselves in new sweat suits with "Lawrence" across the front and a Viking ship sailing the seas on the back. The fellows realize they've got a pretty fair track squad and they're getting all hepped up about the prospects.

But to go back to basketball, Lawrence closed the season with six wins in sixteen starts which isn't so good in one sense of the word but, when one remembers that five of the games were dropped by from 1 to 4 points, the season was just about what Coach Art Denney said it would be when he commented, "We won't win all of our games by any means but we'll give someone a heluva battle."

The Vikings got away to a slow start, picked up momentum for a couple weeks and then ran into heavy weather when the other teams in the circuit finally got organized. Because of inexperience and the steadiness that goes with it, Lawrence dropped several games. But it showed in several others that it wasn't the kind of squad that folded up.

Cliff Burton led the Viking scorers with 171 points which indicates an average of better than 10 points a game. Wallie Cape was second with 91 points. Norm Faleide was third with 84. Ken Buesing had 64 and Junior Kapp 50 among the "regulars." Harry Jackson was credited with 39. Bill Masterson with 31 before an injury laid him low and Ray Herzog had 24.

Three of the men who usually saw action are lost for next year. They are Burton, Kapp and Herzog which means just about all the team's height. Burton's loss, of course, will be felt most because he was rated one of the best men ever to show in a Lawrence uniform and was a highly respected performer in the Midwest conference. Besides being an offensive ace he was the best defensive man on the squad and always was charged with stopping the best of his opponents.

Kapp and Herzog played college ball after little or no high school experience and while neither was outstanding they gave everything they had. Both played their best ball this season and the success of more than one game was due to their ability to get the ball off the enemy back board or push in Lawrence rebounds.

With Faleide, Buesing, Cape, Jackson and several other men who looked fairly good as reserves, and with four or five top performers from the freshman squad, the Lawrence outlook for next season is tops. But there's many a slip 'twixt one season and the next so that the best time to discuss prospects is next winter. However, fellows like Lillge, Coddington, Hutchinson, Sellers, Schade and several others whose names slip my mind, should do a lot to put the Vikes at the top of the heap. And especially with Beloit and Carroll losing their best performers through graduation.

Lawrence's first track meet is booked for March 26 at Madison with the University of Wisconsin and will be an indoor meet. The events will be the 40-yard dash, mile run, 440-yard run, two mile run, 45-yard low hurdles, half mile run, one mile relay, pole vault, shot, high jump and broad jump.

Coach Denney also has announced that he'll enter a squad in the college division of the Drake relays if the squad produces. The events he's interested in are the half, mile and medley relays races, the 100-yard dash, high jump and 120-yard high hurdles

The annual all-college boxing tournament at Lawrence has been scheduled for April 19, 21 and 23. Coach Ade Dillon is handling the sport and intra-mural medals will go to winners of titles.

Coach Art Denney of Lawrence worked in the Beaver Dam B cage tourney last week and the regional meet at East DePere this week. . . . Appleton High school cagers have been Green Bay West's greatest thorn over the years; the Terrors have won 20 and lost 6 against West. . . . Against East the Terrors have won nine and dropped eleven. . . . Only Manitowoc has a better record against East.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

STEVENS POINT—Marion High school went into the Class C finals in the regional basketball tournament here Friday night by easily defeating Abbotsford, 32-16. Coach Ansorge's cagers tonight will meet Edgar, conqueror of Birnamwood, 28-24.

Marion started slowly and held a 7-4 lead at the end of the first quarter after Bing tied at 4-all a minute before the quarter ended. Wulk led the second quarter attack as Marion moved into a 16-7 lead.

Abbotsford was held to a single free throw in the third quarter and Ansorge's cagers rolled up at 27-8 margin which it held going into the final period. Abbotsford outscored Marion, 8-5, in the last quarter.

Wulk and Elandt were the big guns for Marion with 11 points each. Nelson led the losers with eight points. Abbotsford connected for only four field goals.

The hundred or more Marion fans remained for the second game and rooted for Birnamwood, which also had a large following of its own. On the basis of last night's showing Marion is favored to win from Edgar tonight to enter the state tournament.

New London plays Merrill in Class B competition tonight at 8:30, with the Marion-Edgar game scheduled for 7:30.

LITTLE CHUTE—St. John High school won their second conference boxing tilt when they outscored St. Norbert scrappers, 4 to 3, in fast bouts at St. John auditorium last evening.

Little Chute fans expressed disapproval of a decision in the Smoky Van Boxtel-Hochrein go when it was thought Van Boxtel outpointed the St. Norbert lad in the first and second rounds and eased up in the third to fight on a par. The crowd was stunned when Otto Crounce, Green Bay referee, announced the verdict and pointed to frequent left punches to Hochrein's head.

R. Koehn and Kolb squared off in one of the most vicious bouts of the evening. Kolb had a way of keeping both fists in action and scored often at close quarters while Koehn kept shooting a fast left followed with a hard right. Kolb cut Koehn's lip in the second round and the Dutchman opened up in the third round to belt the Green Knight all over the ring.

Crowds Baumgard

Spuda made the mistake of crowding Gordie Baumgard and was hit with everything except the timer's gong before he decided to keep away from the Dutch battler. Baumgard took things easy in the second frame and opened up enough in the third period to win the decision.

Hurst Easy Winner

Ken Hurst proved too fast for Hoffman and won easily after Hoffman was dazed in the first round. Hurst connected with a fast left and Hoffman decided to cover up after that. The St. Norbert boxer showed plenty of stamina to hold up the remainder of the route.

LaTendra won the edge in the final frame after each fighter had a round to his credit. Helf stopped a hard punch to the nose and LaTendra played for th esore spot in the third period.

Becker Lenz surprised most of the crowd with a victory over Duca, who is a tough battler in any ring. Lenz kept his blood pressure down long enough to paste Duca in the first round and the two battled on a par during the balance of the fight.

Seray proved the better boxer in his match with Joe Winius of St. John and won on a close decision. Les Helf was left high and dry when his opponent failed to appear because of an injured nose and the Red Siebers-Bradley match was called off because Siebers injured his right hand in practice. Four exhibition bouts with no decisions concluded the card.

Little Chute—St. John gradesters clinched the Catholic Boy conference crown by defeating St. Patrick of Menasha, 15 to 4, Friday afternoon and chalked up their twentieth straight victory. The junior Dutchmen have two games to play but will have a 1-game lead even if they lose both.

Vanden Heuvel again led the Dutchmen with three field goals for six points while Taves made all of St. Patrick's points with a field goal and two gift shots. Beany Bongers has drilled a neat passing attack into the boys which was at its peak yesterday when they took a 2 to 0 lead at the end of the first quarter and increased it to 7 to 1 at halftime and 12 to 3 at the end of the third frame.

Appleton, Menasha Men On U. W. Rowing Squad

MADISON — At the end of a month's work on the water, Ralph Hunn, University of Wisconsin rowing coach, has made up his tentative first, second and third varsity crews. Hunn feels that, because of getting his men down to actual rowing four or five weeks earlier than ever before the Badgers are farther advanced than they have ever been at this time in the season.

In the first boat, Hunn has three of the 1937 Badger varsity crew—Captain Edward Collins of Calumet, Mich., who has been shifted this year from No. 5 to stroke; Arthur Bridge, South Milwaukee, No. 5; and Edmund Ryan, Durand, No. 2. Donald Wiggins, varsity coxwain for the last two years, is back at the tiller lines. Other men in the first boat are Don Krause, Milwaukee, 7; John Rundell, Madison, 6; Robert Rosenheimer, Kewaukum, 4; Edward Vopel, Milwaukee, 3; and John Boehck, Milwaukee, bow. Rundell Rosenheimer and Vopel were members of last year's freshman crew. Bochck, who seems to have displaced Ray Pacausky of the 1937 varsity at bow, is junior who rowed on last year's jayvee crew.

The junior varsity is at present made up of Dick Hofmann, Ottumwa, Ia., str.; Dan Turner, Madison, 7; Oscar Nerenberg, Racine, 6; James McArdle, Bailey's Harbor, 5; Robert Wolfe, Milwaukee, 4; Howard Milhaupt, Appleton, 3; William Drath, Kenosha, 2; Roy Pacausky, Racine, bow; and Don Kukkuck, Williams Bay, coxwain.

The third crew roster includes Ralph Rogers, Sioux Falls, S. D., stroke; Harry Stroebe Appleton, 7; Elmer Buckethal, Milwaukee, 6, Robert Mendy, Menasha, 5; Ted Prawdzick, Milwaukee, 4; Walter Schulz, Milwaukee, 3; Charles Story, Fayetteville, N Y., 2; Stuart Olbrich, Madison bow and Robert Roderick, Monroe, coxwain.

The Badger varsity squad averages 6 feet 1 2-3 inches in height, with only two men under six feet, and the squad's weight average is just a shade over 173 pounds. Eight are seniors, six, juniors, the others, sophomores.

Town Taxis, Kimberly Win

Former Cops 2 Games Latter 1 at Hartford Last Night

HARTFORD — Appleton Town Taxis and the Kimberly A. A. basketball teams advanced another notch in the Hartford home talent basketball tournament last night when the former won two games and the latter one. The Taxis downed Cedarburg by a 39 to 29 count and then stopped Plymouth by a 44 to 35 score. Kimberly whipped Poynette by a 47 to 36 score.

Tonight The Taxis will meet the Waukesha All-Stars, one of the toughest teams of the meet, at 9:15. Kimberly draws North Lake, composed of eight brothers, at 8 o'clock. Should both the Taxis and Kimberly cop they'll clash for the championship on Sunday.

The Taxi-Cedarburg game was ordered played because Hilbert's games were tossed out, Cedarburg having been defeated by Hilbert in first round play. The Burgers jumped to an early lead and held a 17 to 11 advantage at the half but when the Taxis started hitting there was no doubt about the outcome. Ehlke went wild for the Appleton team in the last half and scored six baskets.

Take 15-2 Lead

Plymouth figured it had an easy game with the Taxis, with the latter already having been through one contest, but it figured wrong. The Taxis still had their shooting eyes from the first contest and rattled up a 15 to 2 lead before the Cheesemakers knew the game was underway. Late in the half Plymouth staged a comeback and the count was 21 to 14 for Appleton when the teams rested.

The final half was a fair battle but with every member of the Taxi team hitting the hoop regularly, the squad galloped through to a 44 to 35 victory. Ehlke, Lloyd and Slattery featured in the Appleton scoring.

Kimberly and Poynette played even ball during the first half of their game but the Papermakers pulled away in the second half and won easily, 47 to 36. The score at the half was 17-all. Bowman paced the Kimberly teams with six goals and two free throws for fourteen points.

Roosevelt Faculty 'Ringers' Beat 9th Grade in Overtime

What was supposed to be a Roosevelt Junior High school faculty team eked out a win over the Ninth grade squad, 32 to 28, in an overtime game at the school gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Jack Notebaart, a ringer from the Vocational school, scored a bucket in the extra period and Ray Montieth, another ringer from Wilson Junior High school, made two gift shots to put the game on ice.

The Ninth grade squad displayed a flashy attack and stood a chance of walloping the Roosevelt faculty but when Ole Jorgenson, coach at Neenah High school, appeared in the lineup, it was just too much for the youngsters. Strange as it may seem, there were some Roosevelt teaches in the game. Bill Pickett, coach, failed to score a point and had three personals chalked against him. Frank Wilson and Merwyn Clough didn't get close to the hoop and Henry Stowe and Charles Herzog were the only legitimate members of the team who scored.

Burton topped the Ninth grade team with four buckets and three free throws for 11 points while Kleifoth and Cooper each scored six points on two field goals and two charity throws apiece.

The score stood 15 to 13 at halftime in favor of the Ninth grade quint and the regulation game ended at 28 to 28.

Mosconi Will Try to Stop Ponzi in Cut Title Quest

New York —(AP)— There won't be any brotherly love shown by Willie Mosconi tonight when he attempts to stop Andrew Ponzi, a fellow Philadelphian, from clinching the world's pocket billiards championship tonight.

Ponzi, with nine wins and one loss, can recapture the crown he's held several times previously, by defeating Mosconi. The best the latter can do by winning, however, is to create a triple tie for the championship.

Mosconi took a 125 to 64 beating last night from Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., and suffered his second defeat in 10 starts. Caras, who handed Ponzi his only setback after the Philadelphia veteran had won nine straight matches, has won nine and lost two.

If Mosconi can turn back Ponzi, the three players will be deadlocked at nine victories and two defeats each, necessitating a playoff for the championship.

Badger Cagers Trim Hilltops

Recent Members of Two Varsity Squads in Close Battle

BY GORDON McINTYRE

UNIVERSITY of Wisconsin cagers of the last season got even with Marquette cagers for two defeats during 1937-38 play when they eked out a 41 to 40 victory here last night at Alexander gymnasium before a fair crowd. The game was a benefit staged by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion for its drum and bugle corps.

Exhibition games as a rule aren't the most interesting things in the book, but last night the men really put out. They battled each other, used all the tricks of the trade, battled and argued with the referees and begged for every decision and even intimated that the timekeeper might let the watch run too long or stop the game too soon when the last couple minutes were being ticked off.

Honor George Rooney

The game also saw George Rooney, Appleton's representative on the Wisconsin team for the last three years, turn in a highly creditable exhibition, tie his teammate, Hod Powell, for Wisconsin point honors, and receive a gift from Oney Johnston post of the American Legion in a little program between halves. Herbert H. Helble, principal of Appleton High school and a former state commander of the Legion, made the presentation.

Wisconsin's lineup showed Rooney and Hod Powell, the latter an all-conference selection, at the forward berths where each got 13 points, Bump Jones at center, Manie Frey, Lee Mitchell and Fred Benz at the guards. Mitchell was slowed down considerably because of a bad knee and on several occasions he looked badly. Benz, on the other hand, showed enough drive, power and ability to make many wonder why the Badger football captain hadn't gone out for basketball.

Hesik, Sokody Star

But it was two Marquette lads who stole the show for individual ability. The outstanding man on the floor probably was Hesik, Marquette guard, and the second ace was Sokody, center and high point man of the game with six field goals and three free throws for 15 points.

Hesik jumped as center at the beginning of the halves and although shorter was getting the tip on Jones. Likewise, under the basket he was far into the air for rebounds. He could pass with either hand and behind his back with unerring accuracy and he was willing to battle anyone for an advantage, officials included. Sokody's shooting featured the contest. He had speed for drives at the basket and he could drop almost any shot on which he was just half way "set." Still a third Marquette man who pleased was Cafone, forward, who was second high scorer for the M. U. team and whose speed featured his efforts.

The game opened with Marquette taking the lead on Cafone's shot but Powell got two baskets and a free throw to put Wisconsin back in front and when Rooney and Jones scored, the Badgers led 9 to 5 at the quarter.

In the second period baskets came oftener and Marquette tallied 17 points for the period and Wisconsin 12. Nine of the Marquette points went to Sokody with three goals and three free throws.

The third quarter saw the teams match points with the count tied at 22-all, 24-all, and 26-all. At the end of the period the Marquette squad held a 31 to 28 lead.

Final Period A Battle

As the final quarter opened Rooney canned one for the Badgers leaving the score 31 to 30 for Marquette. Sokody broke through for a Marquette goal and his team led 33 to 30. Hesik put on a dribbling drive to score and the count was 35 to 30 but the Badgers sliced three points off when Powell scored a goal and Rooney a free throw. When Fred Benz dribbled the length of the court as if headed for a touchdown and dropped the ball through the net, the board showed 35-all.

Jones' basket gave Wisconsin the lead for the first time since the late minutes of the third period but Sokody pivoted and scored to make the count 37-all. Rooney's free throw put the Badgers ahead 38 to 37 but Hesik tied the score with a gift shot for M. U. Powell's free throw gave the Badgers the edge and Rooney added another point to make it 40 to 38. He then dropped another for a 41 to 38 lead which Sokody cut with a field goal. With five seconds remaining, Marquette called for time. When play was resumed the Hilltoppers passed in from out of bounds and Hesik tried a long, desperate shot which didn't go through.

Fox River Cops

The evening's preliminary game saw the Fox River Paper company team outlast the Little Chute Legion and win, 43 to 22. Both squads found the big floor too much and when the game ended all the boys wanted to do or could do was lie down and rest.

Play was fairly even in the first half but the Chuters got only three points in the second half. The Chuters led 15 to 12 at the quarter and 19 to 14 at the half. In the third quarter they got a single point while Fox River went ahead, 25 to 20. In the final stanza Fox River poured in the buckets and won in a walk.

Grishaber got 12 points and Catlin 10 for the winners while H. Van Dyke got 10 for the losers.

New London Cage Fans Following Squad to Point

Wolf River Team Opposes Merrill Tonight in Regional Play

NEW LONDON — All roads out of New London will lead to Stevens Point tonight—in the wake of the New London High school Class B district basketball champions who will fight Merrill for regional honors and state competition rights at the new Stevens Point gym at 8:30.

That New London followers will be well represented is indicated by the advance sale of tickets here this week. The first allotment of 100 was sold at the first offering and to date an estimated 150 purchasers are anxiously anticipating the starting whistle. Many more are expecting to get seats tonight.

The 10 members of the Kaukauna tournament squad will leave at 5:30 this evening in the high school bus. Practices have been light the last week, just enough to keep the cagers in condition and on their toes, while skull sessions have been more serious. Slight injuries received early in the week by Bernie Stern and Stewart Hammerberg, two pillors of the team, are not expected to bother the boys.

From a study on paper the strength of the New London and Merrill teams appears to be even, the up-state team having an advantage in size while the New London quint flouts a tournament record of speed, accuracy and versatile ability to cope with almost any situation.

The New London squad plans to appear between halves of the Marion game in warm-up caperings. The evening's thrills are scheduled to start with the Marion game at 7:30.

The tournament is being held in the spacious gymnasium of the new P. J. Jacobs High school.

Pirate Lineup Still Undecided

Players Engaged in None Too Friendly War for Positions

San Bernardino, Calif. —(AP)— Until the Pittsburgh Pirates settle a none too friendly internal war for positions in every department except catching, the Bucs' regular lineup during the coming National league campaign will remain undecided.

Manager Harold J. (Pie) Traynor believes the Giants, Cubs, Pirates and Cardinals, who finished in that order in 1937, will fight it out again this year for the championship.

Traynor, confident he can smooth his infield and outfield talent into clicking combinations, prays most ardently of all that his pitching staff won't fall apart in midseason, as it did in the thick of things last summer.

New Punch

The easy going Traynor thinks the two Waners, Paul and Lloyd, will be as good as ever in the outer garden, and that the Bucs' young $25,000 rookie, Johnny Rizzo, will provide a new punch in left field. He hit .358 for Columbus last year.

As for the hurling possibilities, Traynor pins most of his faith on Russ Bauers and Jim Tobin, both of whom blossomed into winning pitchers late last season. Bauers won 13 and lost 6, and Tobin won 6 and lost 3.

The rest of the Pirate pitchers fared badly. Cy Blanton was the only regluar who hurled 10 full games. He wound up with 14 wins and 12 defeats.

Marvin Webster Duke, who won 21 and lost 8 for Montreal, may bolster the staff Ken Heintzelman, up from Buffalo, and Bob Klinger from Sacramento, may come through.

The Pirates were second in club batting last season, thanks to the Two Waner boys, and fifth in fielding, thanks to some sloppy performances.

Northern State League Setup Is Perfect From A Rivalry Standpoint

Representatives of Clubs Will Gather at Kaukauna Sunday

KAUKAUNA — The Northern State league will hold its second meeting of the season here Sunday afternoon and the loop's executives hope to complete the 1938 organization steps which will provide for an eight instead of six spoke wheel

At a meeting here two weeks ago, the applications of Clintonville and New London for franchises met with favor of the six holdover clubs, Two Rivers, Manitowoc, Kaukauna, Green Bay, Little Chute and Kimberly. It is expected that the two 'graduates' from the Wolf River Valley circuit will be formally accepted as the first business on the program.

Bitter Rival Pairs

The addition of these teams will give the league four pairs of 'bitter rivals' and the neighborhood feuds should pay healthy returns at the ticket windows. Little Chute and Kimberly always 'battle to death' and the same setup prevails between Green Bay and Kaukauna; Two Rivers and Manitowoc.

Preliminary schedule outlines call for the season to open early in May and continue until Labor Day, which is a week before the Green Bay Packers open their football season at home.

With eight teams in the circuit, a 28-game schedule will be set up will all clubs playing twice around the circuit. It will be a split season and the winners of the first half will tackle the topnotchers in the closing lap for the championship.

Home Player Basis

The Northern State league is expected to operate again on a 'home player' basis as far as it is possible. Last season each of the clubs were allowed three cutsiders and the rule was stretched to help out a couple of the teams who were jinxed with injuries.

Several of the clubs are already busy in the player market and some deals are expected to be announced during the meeting. It is understood that New London is after 'Porky' Penzenstadler, the Oshkosh pitcher and outfielder, who played with Green Bay during the second half of the 1937 season.

Vice President Bernard J. Neumann will preside at the meeting. He has handled the executive role since President Arthur Schuetze died last November. Other officers of the league are: John Coppes, Kaukauan, treasurer, and G. W Calhoun, Green Bay, secretary.

Lash to Try for New 3,000 Meter Mark at Butler

Predict Close Fight for Team Championship During Relays

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— A close fight for the team championship plus an assault by durable Don Lash, former Indiana university runner, on the world's 3,000 meter run record, brought more than 350 of the nation's ace track athletes from 22 schools to Indianapolis today for the sixth annual Butler university indoor relays.

The University of Michigan, winner of the team title for the last four years, again was a favorite to take that crown but the Wolves faced strong opposition from Michigan State, Ohio State, Indiana, Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, Central Intercollegiate conference indoor champion.

Strength in the individual events may give Michigan the edge.

Nurmi Holds Record

The only event on the program that won't count in the point standings was the special 3,000 meter run. In this feature Lash will be pitted against Floyd Lochner, former University of Oklahoma star and holder of the world's record for the two mile steeplechase, and Ray Sears, once a star distance runner for Butler.

The World's record for the 3,000 meter run, 8:26.4, was set by Paavo Nurmi of Finland in 1925. The American indoor record of 8:31.2 was set by Joie Ray of Chicago, in 1923.

Meet records in several events will be in danger, Indiana's medley relay outfit, which won that event in the recent Illinois relays in the record breaking time of 10:14, apparently was almost certain to crack the Butler record of 10:22.7.

Bill Watson, Michigan's great Negro shot putter, was a threat to break his own relays record of 50 feet, 5 inches, set last year. Pitt, with long striding John Woodruff running anchor, may set new marks in the one mile and two mile relays.

Chicago Quint Takes Lead in ABC Tourney

Chicago —(AP)— Eight hours of thunder over the 40 American Bowling congress alleys last night produced a new leader and a new fourth place team in the five-man standings.

It was a Chicago team that took the five-man lead last night Before the out-of-towners got a crack at the drives, the Nibor Athletic club put together a 2,990 series. It was 23 pins better than the best previous mark set jointly by Detroit and Elizabeth, N. J., keglers.

Four hours and two squads later came a 2925 by the Fanatorium recreation of Grand Rapids, Mich., which placed them fourth.

Schedules Eight More Games for All-Stars

Oshkosh —(AP)— Eight additional games were listed today by Lon Darling, manager of the Oshkosh All-Stars basketball team, which will bring the season's total to 75. Of games played, the All-Stars have won 58, lost 9.

The schedule: March 20, at Stevens Point; March 23, at Milwaukee against College All-Stars; March 24, at Ironwood, Mich.; March 25, at Escanaba, Mich.; March 26, at Oshkosh against Whiting (Ind.) Ciesars; March 27, at Marshfield; March 28, at Eau Claire; March 29, at Superior.

Knockdowns are Scarce as Badger Boxers Beat Penn

Wisconsin Avenges 1937 Defeat; Meet West Virginia Friday

MADISON —(AP)— Knockdowns were scarce in the Wisconsin-Penn state boxing match last night, but skillful punching gave the Badgers a 5½ to 2½ victory, their fifth of the season, before a crowd of 11,000 at the field house.

Both teams were in fine condition. Several Penn State mittmen absorbed considerable punishment, blows that would have dropped less worthy foes, but only one of them went down for the full count.

Omar Crocker, Wisconsin's 135 pounder, scored his fourth straight knockout in five fights. He floored his foe, Roy Hanna, in 59 seconds of the first round.

Art Walsh, 115 pounds, was credited with the only other knockdown punch. He sent Mike Cooper, of Penn State, to the canvas for a nine count in the third round of their bout which was awarded to Walsh on points.

Lose Bouts

Ray Chisholm, 145 pounder, and heavyweight Jack Murray, the latter fighting his first collegiate bout, lost decisions to Penn State's Paul Bachman and Nate Handler, respectively. Henry Strand, Wisconsin, and Captain Sam Donata settled their 155 pound match with a draw.

Captain Vito Schiro cinched the match for Wisconsin with a decision over Heber Lessig. The Penn State 165 pounder took more punches—and hard ones—than any other boxer who performed in the field house this year.

The victory, by a score identical to that with which the easterners won over Wisconsin in Philadelphia last year, gave the Badgers two wins against one defeat in competition with Penn State. The Badgers have won all their matches this year and will meet their next opponent, West Virginia, here next Friday.

The results:

125 pounds—Jim Walsh, Wisconsin, won decision from Allen Tapman, Penn.

Fenske May Crack Mile Mark in Armour Relays

Chicago —(AP)— The tenth annual Armour Tech relays drew more than 400 track athletes from 34 colleges and universities to the University of Chicago field house today.

The mile run was expected to be one of the features, with Wisconsin's long-striking Charles (Chuck) Fenske rated a chance of cracking the meet record of 4 minutes 14.1 seconds, established by Indiana's Henry Brocksmith in 1932.

Two other Wisconsin stars are favored in their events. Milton Padway was the choice to win pole vault honors, with Walter Mehl accorded an edge in the half mile run.

Four More Teams Enter National Catholic Meet

Chicago —(AP)— Four more teams have accepted invitations to compete in the 15th annual National Catholic basketball tournament which will open Wednesday night at Loyola university.

The teams which accepted bids yesterday, and brought to 24 the total number entered, were Marquette University high of Milwaukee; Central Catholic of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; St. Veronica of Ambridge, Pa., and St. Francis of Morgantown, W. Va.

Bonura Trade to Senators Doesn't Meet Approval of Fans in Chicago

Chicago —(AP)— So far as Jimmy Dykes is concerned, he who laughs last may yet be Mickey Cochrane.

Dykes, as manager of the Chicago White Sox, yesterday traded first baseman Zeke Bonura to Washington for first baseman Joe Kuhel. And if a long, loud chuckle is heard from Lakeland, Fla., it might be coming from Detroit's Manager Cochrane, who was given the royal raspberry last December when he traded Gerald "Gee" Walker to the White Sox.

The Walker acquisition gave Dykes quite a reputation as a David Harum, sent Cochrane back to the howl of irate fans who liked "Gee" and made Dykes and his big cigar more popular than ever on Chicago's south side. The Bonura deal may have some reverse English and spin Jimmy into at least a mild taste of what his old pal Mickey had to take.

A few hours after the Bonura trade was announced letters began arriving in Chicago newspaper offices. Zeke may run toward the clumsy side as an infielder and be no gazelle on the base paths, but he was the most colorful and popular player the Sox have had in some time. The cry "come on Zeke, come on banana," delivered as the husky son of a New Orleans fruit merchant strode cockily to the plate, has been a familiar one at Comiskey park.

Kuhel, regarded as the better fielder, hasn't the stick power of Bonura, who hit .345 last season and drove in 100 runs to Kuhel's average of .283 and 61 runs driven home. If the 31-year-old Washington veteran doesn't come through—an event which would practically ruin Chicago's chances of finishing as high as third place—Dykes may lose prestige.

Perry Won Seven Titles In Single Year of Tennis

RECORDS may come and go with each succeeding new athletic wonder in the various lines of sports endeavor, but one that will defy players for years to come is that compiled by Fred Perry of England, in tennis before he deserted the ranks of the amateurs to joust with Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, California, for the world's professional championship.

Perry

The two gladiators of the court, recognized as the greatest players in the world today, resume their hectic "show down" battle for professional supremacy in a match here, April 4, at Alexander gymnasium, a fight of the survival of the fittest, to meet the leading amateur of the world who is expected to be enticed into pro ranks next year to transfuse new blood into the argument.

Ten years after he saw his first game of tennis in London, Perry had won his first world's championship and within four years established a world-wide record of championship wins unequalled in the record book. In the span of a single year, Perry collected the national championships of no less than seven different countries on his travels!

A Born Fighter

Dynamic and colorful on the court, with the spirit of a born fighter in the face of odds, Perry silenced the experts who criticized his "unorthodox" shots by the simple expedient of winning with them and for four years single handedly kept the Davis Cup in England against the challenge of the world at large. Today his tennis is more severe than ever and since turning professional, has more wins to his credit over Vines than any other player in the game.

Perry, born in Stockport, England, in 1909, saw his first game of tennis when his family moved to London in 1924. His father, a member of Parliament, gave him a racket for his sixteenth birthday and in lieu of a court, Perry learned the fundamental strokes batting the ball against a garage door in his back yard! Hours a day, he spent at this practice before he worked up enough nerve to try out the game on a court, so anxious was young Perry to win. His success as a junior was only moderate, but he discovered one thing that has been one of his prime weapons throughout his career-batting the ball against the garage had taught him to hit the ball on the rise after the bounce. When he got on the court, he found that he was rushing his shots faster than his opponents anticipated them and so started the basis of his greatest weapon, breaking up his opponents' game before they had opportunity to get set for their shots.

Visited United States

Scoring an upset victory over Italy's Baron de Morpurgo at Wimbledon in 1930 earned Perry a trip to America and there he discovered that his services must be changed to cope with the hard-hitting Yankees. While that particular trip earned Perry no championships, he continued down to Argentine and won that national championship a few months later.

A five set jinx camped on Perry's trail early in his international career, and the young Englishman found himself reaching the finals of important tournaments only to drop five set verdicts to his opponents. It wasn't until the finals of the American national championships at Forest Hills in 1933 that he succeeded in beating the jinx, defeating Jack Crawford of Australia to take the United States crown. That winter he won the Australian championship, returned to England to win Wimbledon, scored a triumph in the French nationals and successfully defended the American crown—the only player to hold these four major titles of the world in a single year.

Perry is perhaps the most widely traveled player in tennis, his trophies bearing record to championships won in the four corners of the globe. Three times he invaded Australia and New Zealand; seven times he has toured the United States; three times Canada, and his other ports of call have been South America, South Africa, India, Bermuda and Jamaica, as well as of the European countries.

Signs For Tour

His debut into professional tennis was no less sensational than his amateur career. Climaxing weeks of rumors, during which trans-Atlantic wires sizzled as England tried to discover whether her Davis Cup ace was lost, Perry signed for a tour with Vines.

Opening in Madison Square Gardens, their epochal match broke all attendance records and all gate marks for professional tennis or any other brand of tennis. Their complete tour broke the previous Vines-Tilden records in attendance and receipts, and it was estimated that the entire tour grossed approximately a quarter of a million dollars.

Perry lost the American tour to Vines by a margin of three matches, for Vines won 33 and Perry but 30. When they invaded England, however, Perry put on a spectacular in front of his countrymen and succeeded in winning 7 of their 11 matches on the "tight little isle," thus winding up the season with a grand total of 37 matches to an equal number of Vines.

There is no love lost between the two bitter rivals this year, for it is common knowledge that the loser will have to step down in favor of the winner when it comes time to talk of next year's competition against the leading amateur who will be propositioned to sacrifice simon pure standing in favor of a solid bank roll.

St. Mary Cagers Invited to Play In National Meet

Squad of Eight Will Leave For Chicago Next Wednesday

MENASHA — St. Mary High school cagers, champions of the Fox Valley Catholic conference, have been invited to participate in the annual National Catholic High school basketball tournament in Chicago which runs from next Thursday through Sunday.

The squad of eight players will leave Wednesday for Chicago. The outstanding Catholic high school teams from various sections of the country have been invited to participate.

The Zephyrs received an invitation to the tournament Thursday night, joining Marquette High school of Milwaukee as Wisconsin teams in the tourney. The outstanding record of the St. Mary team in the Fox Valley Catholic conference won the invitation.

The Zephyrs won the league championship with eight straight victories. In addition the Zephyrs went into the finals of the tournament at DePere, losing the championship to St. Stanislaus of Milwaukee.

Won 13, Lost 7

During the season in which they won 13 games and lost 7, the Zephyrs scored an even 500 points, averaging 25 a game, while their opponents were held to 425. The Zephyrs scored 189 field goals and 122 free throws while committing 202 fouls during the season.

In compiling their record of 13 wins and 7 losses during the season the Zephyrs took eight straight games from conference foes, won three of nine games against non-conference foes and won two out of three games at the St. Norbert tournament. Reuben Prunuske, lanky center, and Bill Resch, sophomore guard, were the outstanding scorers during the season.

The Zephyrs have resumed drill for the tournament after taking things easy since the St. Norbert game. They did play an intrasquad game Thursday night and showed the effects of their layoff. Passing was rusty and when the passes did click the shooting was worse.

The tournament squad of eight players as named by Coach Norman Miller probably will contain Reuben Prunuske, Bill Resch, Fred Picard, Eugene Laux Griesbach Clayton Hopfensperger, Harley Hoks and Rommel.

Ray Billows Is Only Golfer Rated Scratch

New York —(AP)— Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., runnerup to Johnny Goodman in the 1937 national amateur championship and a member of the 1938 U. S. Walker cup team, heads the 1938 honor roll issued today by the Metropolitan Golf association.

Billows is the only one of 63 golfers with handicaps of four or under who is rated at scratch. Bracketed at one stroke are Willie Turnesa, metropolitan amateur champion; Frank Strafaci, former U. S public links champion, and T. Suffern Tailer, alternate on this year's Walker cup squad.

Ten players are given a two-stroke rating. They are Richard Ciuci, Edmund H. Driggs, Jr., Tommy Goodwin, Ian B. MacCallum, John E. Parker, Jr., Mark J. Stuart, Jess W. Sweetser, George J. Voight and Charles Whitehead.

Training Camp Briefs

ORLANDO, Fla. — Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, is pleased with the deal that brought his club Zeke Bonura from Chicago in exchange for Joe Kuhel. Griffith, whose nickname, the "Old Fox," came from making smart trades, said the deal was the best he ever had engineered.

New Orleans — The New York Giants began the final stage of their month-old training season today with the opening of their annual exhibition series against Cleveland. They have only five open dates before the National league season starts.

New Orleans — Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians announced today that Bob Feller will pitch three innings against Carl Hubbell in tomorrow's exhibition against the Giants. Willis Hudlin, Joe Heving and Tom Drake were today's mound nominees.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Spurgeon Chandler, the Yankees' young right-hander who was put out of action last season by a sore arm, was due for a big test in today's exhibition against the St Louis Cardinals. His showing was expected to determine whether he will get a regular starting berth this season.

Clearwater, Fla. — Larry MacPhail, boss of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is boosting his new infield as "the best in the National league." MacPhail figures the combination of Dolph Camilli, Pete Coscarart, Leo Durocher and Cookie Lavagete not only is strong defensively but should bat collectively at a .275 clip or better.

Towns of Bovina, Ellington to Have State Game Refuge

Conservation Commission's Order Becomes Effective April 1

An area of 1,240 acres in the towns of Ellington and Bovina in Outagamie county will become a game refuge beginning April 1, according to an order issued by the state conservation commission.

Decision to set aside the land, outside the limits of any city or village, as a game preserve and call it the Laird Game Refuge was made at a recent meeting of the commission.

The area will be used "as a game refuge for the purpose of providing safe retreats for game and game birds in which they may rest and replenish adjacent hunting grounds," the commission order states.

Written consent of owners of all land to be embraced by the game refuge has been obtained. In the town of Ellington, the land is on sections 1 and 2 and in the town of Bovina on sections 35 and 36.

"It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to hunt or trap or have in possession any gun unless the same is unloaded and knocked down or unloaded and enclosed in a case" within the game refuge, the commission ordered. The order was signed by H. W. MacKenzie, state conservation director.

Wisconsin Bowling Tourney Opens in Twin Cities

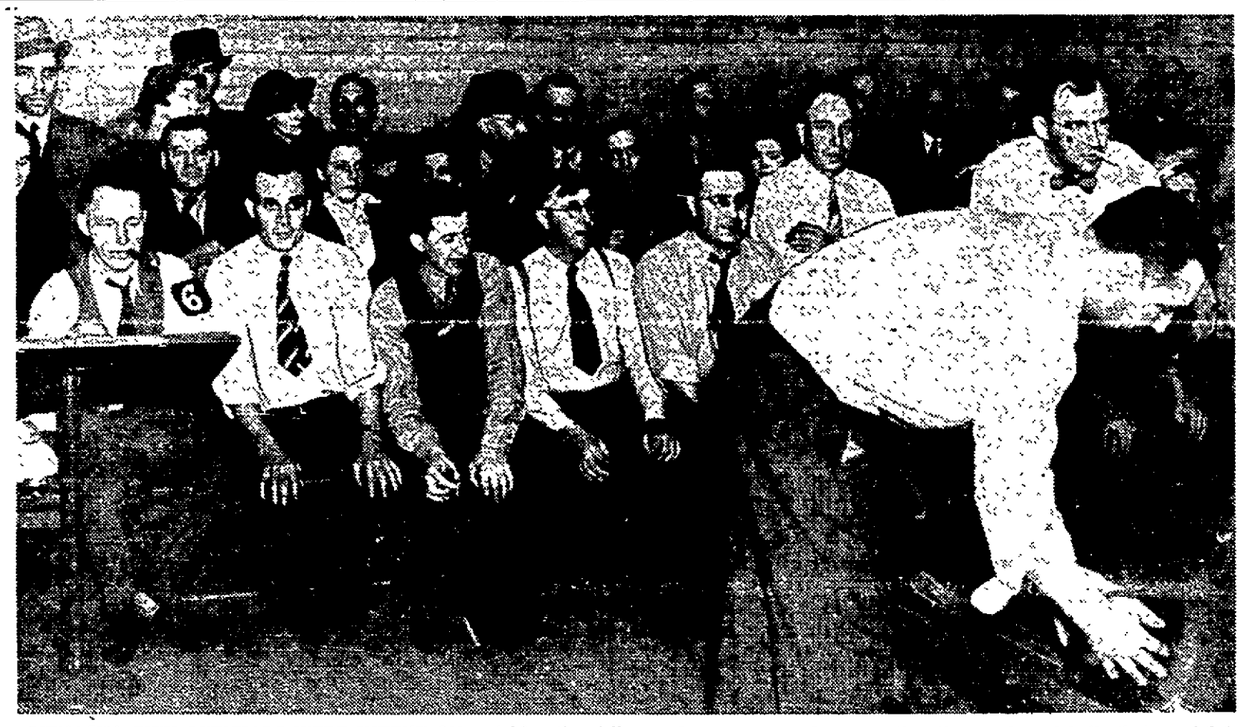
J. J Pelley (above), president of Association of American Railroads, declined to comment upon reports reduction of as much as ten per cent would be sought for 1,000,000 U. S. rail workers. The association was in session in Chicago to consider "decrease in wage rates" and other matters.



MENASHA CITY OFFICIALS WERE INTENT ON watching the strikes and spares, or perhaps counting the number of balls that went into the gutter, when they cooperated in the opening of the state bowling tourney Thursday night. Shown on the picture, from left to right, are C. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer, at the score sheet, while seated on the bench are William Reimer of the water and light departments; Clement Newcomb, Third ward alderman; George Eckrich, Fifth ward alderman; Harold Berro, water and light cashier, Philip Michalkiewicz, Fourth ward alderman, and Harold Landgraf. Edward W. Forkin, attorney for the water and light commission, is shown delivering what he hopes will be a strike on alley 9 while George Weisgerber, First ward alderman, is picking a ball to roll on alley 10.

TWENTY YEARS AGO THE TWIN CITIES were host to the state bowling tournament. George Thompson, Menasha, president at that time, is shown shaking hands with George M. Gilbert, Neenah, honorary president of this year's tourney. Thompson recalled that only 268 teams were entered 20 years ago while this year all records were broken when 1,370 teams entered the tourney.

THE TWIN CITIES HELPED TO MAKE THE thirty-sixth annual state bowling tournament a success by entering 411 booster teams in addition to many others entered in the regular divisions. Responsible for much of the success were Joe Muench, proprietor of the Neenah alleys; A. A. Hennig, Neenah, local tourney manager, and Dud Verwey, Menasha, shown above as they chatted at the opening of the meet last night. C. A. Hendy, proprietor of the Hendy Recreation alleys where the singles and doubles events got under way today, was also active in the organization work but was busy at his own alleys Friday night and unable to get to the opening ceremonies.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

Chapter 48

Farewell To Balingong

At that, my uncle spoke, and though his words were husky and very faint, it seemed to me that there was satisfaction in them. "It's going to be a good old-fashioned winter, Paul."

I don't know whether he was conscious while we were moving him, or whether he felt the river under him when he was finally laid in the bottom of the boat.

'You going to leave all that stuff for the Malays?'" Blair demanded. 'There's more'n 100 guns, and a lot of—"

"Pull like the devil. I'll keep their attention here a little while."

I went back to the house and now Clyde's Tenyalang riflemen were flocking around me from the darkness, gravely anxious to know if they had seen aright, and their rajah was gone. I kept some of them with me, and told the others to make ready their canoes.

For a short while I stood looking around that cluttered main room. Things of great value were there, if I had had time to sort them out. But if I had once started to take away anything, there would have been no place to stop.

I found the hatch in the floor. Below it was a ladder and a sling. With one of my Dyaks I went below where the kegs of powder waited in a black pit, and had the Tenyalang men pass up three kegs to the room above. I split the kegs open with an axe, and we spilled powder all over. It was my intention that the place should be in a full blaze before the powder sent it up; I wanted no scrap of anything left.

By this time Clyde's Tenyalang panglima was begging me to come outside. There was something he must show me at once.

I followed him, stumbling in the dark as we raced across the compound and up the embankment of the inner stockade. Three or four of Clyde's Dyaks were standing there on the top of the stockade, silently staring at something up the river. I could not see what they were looking at; I could hardly see the men themselves.

The panglima said, "Praus, Tuan."

'How many?'"

'There are six. No, there are seven now.'

'I can't hear their paddles."

'They are backing water in the current, waiting for others, maybe.

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York —(AP)— With danger of a European war averted at least for the moment, stocks jumped back on the recovery track in today's market and regained 1 to around 4 points of Friday's losses

Buying support appeared in virtually all departments at the opening following advices Lithuania had accepted Poland's ultimatum, thus lessening the chances of a military outbreak

Prominent on the move were steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, coppers, farm implements, gold mines and specialties. Even the rails and utilities, although not particularly buoyant, were in moderate demand.

Action of Mexico in expropriating the Republic's petroleum industry was without disturbing repercussions on stocks of Standard of N. J. and Consolidated, both of which have important interests in that country.

Dome mines was a relatively fast climber, getting up more than 4 points on announcement share owners would be asked to vote on a 2-for-1 split-up. The stock backed down a bit at the end.

Prominent on the forward push were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, General Electric, Santa Fe, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Harvester, Eastman Kodak, Philip Morris, Loew's, International Nickel, National Supply and Texas corporation.

Conservation Interest Is Growing in Country

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Next week is Wild Life Restoration week. Those who have followed conservation activities recently will agree with me when I say that the rapidly growing interest in this subject will reach a height during the week of celebration which has never been reached before.

Clara Hussong

Twenty - five years ago it was the unusual man or woman who worried about the declining numbers in certain species of wildlife. Today it is the unusual person who is not concerned over this important matter. This change in attitude toward conservation has been brought about both by experience and education.

We have learned that too intensive drainage of marshes, cutting of timber and cultivation of land make the country less valuable, and in some cases, impossible for the preservation of desirable birds and animals. We have also learned that feeding and protecting the vanishing species will help to build up their numbers.

Children Are Interested

The things we have learned by experience are important, but more important still, in my opinion at least, is the idea of conservation which children are being given at home and in school. When the state department of education added nature study to their course of study for elementary grades one of the greatest steps toward conservation of wildlife was taken.

A great many children develop a love of nature simply through a study of it at school. Many more can be interested by giving them some definite conservation project to develop. The following incident may be of help to parents and teachers who wish to interest children in conservation.

Last fall our local bird club set up a number of feeding stands in the parks of the city. Two stands were erected in a park next to a school. The member of the bird club who kept those stands supplied with food reported to me that on a number of occasions the feed had been tipped out or the stands meddled with in some way.

I guessed that children on their way to and from this school must have been responsible for this meddling. I called the principal of the school and asked her to explain the purpose of the stands to the children and to try to get their promise to leave the stands alone in the future. Whatever she told her pupils, I don't know, but it worked. For a few days the boxes remained undisturbed and then it was noticed that extra food, such as bread crusts and table scraps, were found in them.

Teachers Can Help

The next time I saw the principal she told me that her pupils not only promised to stop the mischief but asked if they couldn't help to keep the feeding boxes supplied with food. Now these pupils are planning to organize their own bird club in the school and next year they plan to take entire charge of the stands.

This little incident will show how a wise teacher changed hostility or indifference to cooperation. We all know that children can be taught to care for and protect whatever they feel depends upon them for that care and protection. When all growing children are taught their responsibility to our natural resources we can be quite certain that conservation in the future won't be the problem it is today.

The urge to help in the restoration of our wildlife arises in us for a number of reasons. The sportsman who cares for nothing but sport will help so that he can continue indulging in his favorite pastime. But he probably gets less real joy out of helping than does the nature lover who does his share without thinking of any material benefits he may derive from his act.

Stamps on Sale

Just the pleasure of watching streaming files of wild geese flying over every spring and fall, or the sight of a wild deer bounding away through the brush is enough payment for the non-hunting nature lover.

The General Wildlife federation has issued stamps to be sold during this period, the money to be used in helping restore those birds and animals which are becoming scarce. These stamps are being sold over the entire country. Fifteen species of birds and animals are pictured on these stamps in natural colors. The quail and the Canada goose are shown in two different poses, making 17 different kinds of stamps in all.

Wheat Quotations Slip as European Situation Eases

Favorable Weather in Southwest Factor in Depressed Trade

BY FRANKLIN MULLIN

Chicago—(AP)—Wheat prices in the world's major markets turned downward today on reports of at least temporary easing of war tension in Europe.

Chicago wheat fell 1⅜ cents in the first five minutes of trading and then fluctuated near this level.

Small export business despite the lower prices, favorable weather in the southwest, official estimate of domestic acreage which could yield big production under normal conditions and good prospects for crops in Europe were depressing factors.

Wheat closed ¾ to 1⅛ lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 87⅛-⅞, July 83⅞-84, and corn was ⅛-¼ down, May 59⅜, July 61⅛. Oats lost ⅛-¼.

Little Change in Hog Quotations

Few Heavy Butchers Sold As Market Reaches Practical Standstill

Chicago —(AP)— The hog market was almost at a standstill today. Only a few loads were sold and these were heavy butchers at $8.90 and $8.95. A few head made $9.25, the top.

Sheep and cattle were nominally steady.

Earnings

Green Bay —(AP)— The Northwest Engineering company reported yesterday a profit of $923,957 in 1937, equal to $3.08 a share on capital stock outstanding, compared with $841,745 or $2.80 a share in 1936. The company manufactures cranes and excavating machinery.

Be A Safe Driver

A quick panic struck me. I so nearly had Clyde out of there—would sweep down on the whaleboat, too, and take Blair and Clyde.

"Get all your people into their boats, and shove off—fast."

I sprinted back to the house, and fumbled about for the fuse dangling beside the ladder. I struck fire to it, and for a moment watched the little sputtering coal of light begin to climb. It was burning well, faster, in fact, than I had expected. I turned and ran. I vaulted down from the top of the foot stockade, and in two moments more we were on the river again, at last.

Sing!

We had not taken 10 strokes into the current before we began to hear the many paddles of the Malays moving in the river above. They were closing a little now, but slowly, and they did not fire yet. It seemed to me that they could not decide what they were trying to do.

One of my tenyalang lay in the stern, his rifle sighted back over the stern post. "Shall I fire, Tuan?"

"Hold your fire." Suddenly I decided to try something else. "Sing," I ordered. "Sing, all of you!"

They hesitated, and then one of them began a low chant which, even in the first words, I recognized as a dirge.

"No! Give me the fighting song. Give me the Song of the Tuan Darah—and let me hear you yell!"

They picked it up, first hesitantly, then in wild rising cadences, timed by the paddles. It was an eerie thing to hear, that primitive song of victory, and savage exultation, and defiance, howled from the throats of fugitive men to whom all gains were lost. They would yell for 10 strokes, then paddle six strokes in utter silence; then the wild burst of song would rise again for 10 strokes more. So it went, all the way as we boiled down that black river.

Whether the Malays faltered because of that insane song, or only turned aside to scout the beach that we had left, I do not know; but presently we could no longer hear them behind us.

Then, as our bankong swung into the Sidcrong's many - channeled delta, where the jungle dropped away on either side, so that we were alone upon the empty water, we sighted Blair's whaleboat, drifting idly with lifted oars. And the fool had struck a light!

"For God's sake," Blair said "come here." He's bleeding, Paul; he's bleeding bad."

I hesitated and glanced back along the river. I could detect no signs of pursuit. But now up the Siderong, above the jungle, a glow was rising a golden diffusion spreading upward, fan-wise into the smoky sky. Against that glow we could see the shadowy heads of tall hibung palms standing out high above everything else, far up the stream; and they looked tiny against the immensity of that dim spread of light.

"Pull on to the ship," I decided "It's all we can do."

"This is going to finish him, Paul. Right quick now, I think."

Blair's light was a marked hurricane lantern, so guarded that it dropped a little cone of yellow into the bottom of the boat. In this cone, detached by the surrounding inky night, I could see Blair's hand—a big muscular hand with a spouting whale tatooed upon the back. But from where I sat, I could not see my uncle.

"Pull up, anyway. The best we can do for him is to get him onto his ship."

"He's Gone"

Blair grunted to the oarsman and their blades chugged in the water as they pulled. Still fearful that other praus might come on from the river or the shore, I held the bankong back.

I had thought that two miles of the Siderong river was a long, long way, but the river had been nothing compared to that last distance in the bay. Blair's dim lantern vanished, leaving both our boats lightless again, and in that starless midnight the bay was no longer a bay at all—it was such an emptiness as could only have existed before time or light were ever created.

Then, in the dark we almost barged into Blair's whaleboat again, its men resting on their oars once more; and this time I knew at once, without asking, why Blair had stopped.

We swung close, and Blair spoke to me very low across the little space.

"He's gone, Paul."

"Are you sure."

"Sure, I thought you might want to know before you went aboard."

"Thanks. Where's the ship?"

"She's dead ahead. You better go on board first to tell the girl."

"All right."

A little later a white flash split the sky above the jungle, so bright that I saw the black hulk of the Linkang ahead for an instant, thrown in silhouette against shadowless water, as in a lightning flash. And instantly afterward the sky and the jungle and the sea shook with the slam of a terrible thunder.

Until James Clyde was under the water, I did not begin to realize how much I had depended on him. I had done much of our least comfortable work myself, and I had not always agreed with his ways. But he had always been there, solid as rock, affording a certainty of decision which was a fixed thing, such as a man can chart his course by. I missed that now.

But I was discovering also what a myriad of things my uncle's ended life had left undone.

I sat now at the bolted-down table under the Avan's afterdeck awning, making lists of the people I needed to see, and sorting out my plans. The Avon and the Linkang were proceeding in convoy to Singapore. I needed delay while I tried to plan, and I was glad that adverse winds alternated with untimely calms.

When the weather allowed, Christine slept in a long deckchair near where I worked. All the hours of rest she had missed during the siege of Balingong, and before, were now being made up. I was very glad.

And I was touched, too, that she seemed to like to be near me as she slept.

Chinese-Owned Coal Resources Captured

The Japanese took Tsaochwang in a drive to smash China's vital corridor along the Lunghai railway.

At the same time Japanese 35 miles south of Tasochwang advanced on Suchow, strategic junction where the east-west Lunghai and the north-south Tientsin-Pukow railway cross.

Chinese reported see-saw fighting in other sections of the broad central Chinese battle region had offset Japanese gains, however.

New York Bond Market In Recovery Movement

New York— (AP)— A marked upswing in a group of foreign dollar issues recently depressed by lowering European war clouds gave the bond market an improved appearance today.

Among domestic corporate loans, best showing was made by Nickel Plate 4½s, Southern Railway 4s, Paramount Picture 6s and International Telephone 5s.

In the government division 11 of the 14 actively traded issues were up, two unchanged and one down.

Better Feeling Exists As Curb Stocks Climb

New York—(AP)—Better feeling of traders regarding the European crisis spilled over from the "big board" into the curb market today and leaders advanced generally fractions to around 3 points.

Issues substantially ahead near the final hour of the short session America, Babcock and Wilcox, Inplate Glass, Sherwin Williams, Carrier Corp., and Mapes Consolidated.

Won't Oppose Action On Independence Bill

Washington—(AP)—Philippine Resident Commissioner Quintin Paredes said yesterday he would not oppose early consideration of a bill by Representative O'Malley (D-Wis.) to give the islands immediate freedom without trade preferences.

O'Malley, criticizing American High Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's proposal of "dominion status" for the Philippines, announced he would act to force consideration of his bill for immediate withdrawal of the United States from the islands.

O'Malley said "while President Quezon hems and haws and changes his mind overnight, Filipino leaders keep writing me to ask for immediate independence. I have been patient and I want to be fair but Mr. Quezon is too inconsistent. First he shouts for freedom. Then he opposes it when he offer it to him. Then Mr. McNutt proposes dominion status which Quezon accepts one day and promptly rejects the next. I think America ought to pull out of the Philippines and a lot of my friends in congress agree with me."

Extra Police to Guard U. W. Engineers' Parade

Madison—(AP)—Police Chief William H. McCormick called out a special detail of more than 40 patrolmen today to show he meant business about his order against egg throwing during the annual St. Pat's parade of the University of Wisconsin engineering students.

Police said the city last year had to pay out $100 in claims for damages caused by the annual battle between the engineering and law students.

The law students usually store up their eggs and rotten vegetables the night before the parade. After a load of garbage had been dumped on the steps of the engineering building last night, the police started a systematic search and arrested three students for disorderly conduct.
